McCarter Will Mark Bicentennial Year with Six Plays Celebrating American Theatre

"Without chauvinism," Dan Seltzer began, "this past season has put McCarter Theatre not only where we hoped it would be, but above that level."

It's the most exciting year I've ever had!" exclaimed Michael Kahn, McCarter's Producing Director. Both talked about seasons past and future at a press conference Thursday.

Professor Seltzer probably felt he should make the chauvinism disclaimer because he's chairman of Princeton University's McCarter Theatre committee and could, possibly, be accused of bias.

Mr. Kahn, as a director, doesn't mind being accused of excitement and indeed was quite willing to carry this year's excitement over into next.

We open with a big musical. Or so everyone hopes. That's one of America's great contributions to the theatre, Mr. Kahn observed, and next year, McCarter will bow to the Bicentennial with a "Season of Celebration" of the American theatre.

Whose musical? Mr. Kahn won't say. But it's not by unknowns, he would reveal that much, and Mc-

Carter will have to find another $50,000 to put it on.

"We're going to try our damndest to raise it," Mr. Kahn said with feeling. He remarked in an aside, that Professor Seltzer managed to raise $17,000 this past season for extra expenses involved in putting on "Mother Courage," so a happy precedent has been set.

More excitement: 40 years "to the WEEK!" from the time Clifford Odets' "Awake and Sing" opened on Broadway, McCarter will play it in Princeton. And Morris Carnovsky, who was in that first cast, will be in this one. Not in the same role, 40 years being the same for an actor as for anybody else, but in the role of the grandfather. He is now rehearsing "King Lear" with Mr. Kahn in Stratford, Connecticut.

Then... "A Grave Undertaking," by a 24-year-old Montclair school teacher named Lloyd Gold, a play described by Mr. Kahn as "a macabre, rather touching comedy, about the true nature of helping each other, about what is love, terribly funny and very southern," although not Tennessee Williams.

Then... Langdon Mitchell's "The New York Idea," often called the first social comedy written in this century, a play which will then travel to Washington to help the Kennedy Center celebrate its own Bicentennial.

And of course "Our Town," the Thornton Wilder classic that was premiered at McCarter, back in January, 1938; possibly, as a closing play, Arthur Miller's "The Crucible," which was given in McCarter half a dozen years ago by an earlier repertory group.

Six plays, compared to five this year. And three more performances of each play, two previews instead of one for a total of 14 performances.

Princeton Churches and Other Organizations Increasing Campaign to Combat World Hunger

The governing body of the Nassau Presbyterian Church has voted unanimously to make the question of world hunger a "priority concern" of the congregation, at the same time that similar resolutions have been recommended to members of the Unitarian Church.

The 39-member Presbyterian Session adopted a paper prepared by a Hunger Task Force within the church that analyzes the causes, dynamics, and specific possible responses to the world hunger crisis, including the difficult theological and ethical questions involved. The paper is available in the main hall of the Palmer Square church building.

The Session reported in the church newsletter that "we are engaged in a battle for physical survival on our small planet. The war on hunger cannot be won in less than a generation, but it will certainly be lost if our generation does not begin now to struggle with the problem."

The Session has formed a Nassau Legislative Network to influence legislation bearing on hunger problems, particularly the need to reshape the U.S. Food for Peace program. Meatless Wednesdays and Sunday hunger offerings will also continue, with the money being sent to the church's missionary couple in Pakistan.

Unitarians Back Food Week. The Social Concerns Committee of the Princeton Unitarian Church has unanimously recommended to its congregation that they take social and political action to combat world hunger.

Committee chairman Phillip Gillette, of 40 Patton Avenue, said the group acted in preparation for the church's annual meeting on Friday and for National Food Day next Thursday.

The committee urged the congregation to participate in local activities for Food Week starting Monday and to raise funds, particularly money saved from decreasing personal consumption.

Members were also asked to urge school personnel to introduce the curriculum outline on world hunger prepared by Princeton Hunger Action into subjects at the elementary, middle and high school levels.

Political Action. The committee recommended that messages be sent to N.J. Senators and Representatives urging them to pass legislation which would end acreage allotments for rice so as to increase the potential output of rice in the U.S. (Rice

Day of Fasting Asked

The Princeton Interfaith Council's World Hunger Committee has asked that the Princeton Community participate in a 24-hour fast in conjunction with "Food Day."

William K. Kirby, Chairman of the World Hunger Committee, said, "We request that people begin fasting after dinner next Wednesday and fast for 24 hours." The fast will be ended by an interfaith, community worship service at the University Chapel at 6 p.m. Thursday, April 17.

"During the fast," the Rev. Mr. Kirby said, "people in the Princeton community could meditate on increasing food prices, on the starving people around the world, on American eating habits, and on ways to change their lifestyles and diets. Furthermore, the money each individual saves from not eating during that 24 hour period could be sent to the PIC World Hunger Fund, 33 Mercer Street, or given at the worship service."

Act of 1974); provide a system for government held grain reserves as a buffer against shortages (Humphrey Bill); and commit funds to the International Fund for Agricultural Development proposed at the World Food Conference.

Finally, the Committee asked that the President be requested to exercise his power under Public Law 480 to commit the needed 8 million tons of emergency food shipments instead of the proposed 4 million tons, and to appoint a Commission on Fertilizer to find ways to conserve this scarce resource.

This Is Princeton

The proposals were drawn up by the Committee's World Hunger Task Force headed by Carol Allen of 45 Palmer Square, and are in keeping with the spirit of a broad resolution on World Hunger approved by the Church's Trustees in January.

Two of the recommendations--on political action and educational curriculum--will be circulated at the Annual Meeting for individuals to sign.

Missionary Couple Reports, Nassau Presbyterian's missionary couple in Pakistan, Lee and Mary Reed, recently wrote on the use of the church's hunger offerings in their work.

"My husband often repeats the proverb, 'If you give a man a fish, you feed him for today. If you teach him to fish, you feed him for a life time.' So we are out here using your gifts to 'teach men to fish'...and to build fishing boats, and tie flies, and weave and mend nets, and open fish markets."

The letter continued, "It takes longer, but we are convinced it is the only way to permanently meet the hunger problem with any group of people. We want to thank all who have helped for their very wonderful support of us in this effort."

FOOD WEEK PLANNED By Princeton Hunger Action

To increase concern for world problems of hunger, population and nutrition, Princeton Hunger Action has announced a "Food Week" program of lectures, workshops, movies and benefit performances in the arts beginning this Monday.

The week's events will culminate in a Princeton World Hunger Conference next Saturday, April 19, from 9:30 to 5 in Whig Hall that will feature 30 noted speakers and seminar participants from all over the country including a keynote speech by the ambassador from Bangladesh to the U.S. The day's learning festival approach will be supplemented by UNICEF movies, information and telegram tables and music by local groups.

In recognition of national Food Day activities on Thursday, April 17, there will be an all-day fast and a series of activities in the Princeton University Chapel. These include group meditation at 4, an "Ecumenical Vigil" at 5 with the University Chaplains, and a service led by the Rev. William Kirby of the Princeton Interfaith Council at 6.

On Thursday evening, Theatre Intime will present a benefit premiere of the "The Caucasian Chalk Circle" by Brecht at 8 in Murray-Dodge. At the same time, a benefit poetry reading titled "Pen-nyeach" for world hunger relief will be held in the Princeton Inn.

Lectures First Three Nights. Thursday's and Saturday's events will be preceded by lectures on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings to inform people of the scope of world order problems and of future initiatives. All three lectures will be at 8 in Room 2 of the Woodrow Wilson School.

Richard Falk, professor of politics at Princeton University, will talk on "The Political Roots of Hunger" on Monday.

Ansley J. Coale, of the Office of Population Research, will speak on "The Relationship Between Food Problems and Population Growth."

Wednesday's talk will be "Sharing World Resources: A Workshop on the Moral Arguments" to be given by Princeton University professor of philosophy Thomas M. Scanlon.

Individual Action is Theme. Saturday's World Hunger Conference and the religious and fasting activities on Thursday will also emphasize ways in which individuals can act in the face of world crises. Action areas outlined by the group include political pressure, dietary habits, food prices, the distribution of world food resources, and cafeteria waste in local institutions and restaurants.

McCarter Theatre Plans

"Six plays next season—it's a vote of confidence on the part of the University at a time when many theatres are retrenching," Mr. Kahn said. He spoke glowingly of audience response to the quintet of plays just presented... "we had audiences that were informed, enlightened, caring and even daring—92 percent capacity for very difficult plays that weren't obvious box-office."

He pointed out that he'd chosen plays which had always interested him personally, and they turned out to be box-office. "Other theatres have had to do 'Arsenic and Old Lace' to survive, but we didn't."

Two That Failed. The 1974-75 plays may have interested Mr. Kahn personally, but they didn't always arouse unbridled excitement. William McCleery, TOWN TOPICS' reviewer, says tactfully that "Beyond the Horizon" and "Kingdom of Earth" were "interesting as examples of bad plays by good authors."

"This kind of theatre is educational, but pretty expensive teaching," he said.

"And 'Tis Pity She's a Whore' was not a very great play from a very interesting period."

Everybody thought "Romeo and Juliet" was the best. "To see 'Romeo and Juliet' after 'Tis Pity' showed what a really good playwright could do with somewhat comparable material," Mr. McCleery says with a smile.

Productions were "uniformly excellent—in casting, direction and the way the plays were mounted," Mr. McCleery continues. "I understand fully a director's urge—in a university setting—to do off-beat things, and the choice of plays is difficult in a theatre as large as McCarter, but when a company is THAT good, you want to see them do great plays."

Funds to Be Sought. Although Mr. Kahn is relieved that "Arsenic and Old Lace" can be kept in the trunk, he does have money to think about. Not right now, but later. McCarter has $100,000 in Rockefeller and Mellon grants that will be used up and must be replaced for the 1976-77 season. The University's generosity to McCarter represents "unprecedented support for a professional theatre," in Mr. Kahn's grateful phrase, but there must be additional support.

McCarter has a $1.2 million budget for fiscal 1976, which starts July 1. Edward Martensen, theatre manager, says he must find $30,000 for a base budget, and would like even more.

McCarter plans to go to the community, and Micky Hobson, director of Audience Development, is already moving ahead. The theatre is 1,500 to 2,000 subscribers ahead of last year at this time. Last year, subscriptions hit 3,000 in June. This year, by June, they'll reach 5,000, Ms. Hobson says. The goal is 10,000. With 14 performances scheduled for a 1,077-seat theatre, this doesn't leave many tickets for non-subscription sales. A happy development.

Mr. Kahn's role as director of the Stratford, Connecticut enterprise is a great financial boon to both theatre companies. For example, Stratford lent the "Romeo and Juliet" sets and rehearsal time and staff can be shared between the two theatres.

Various Sources. McCarter plans to ask for major support from Princeton's business sector. The Mobil Research and Development Center became a "Business Producer" and paid for one performance of "Kingdom of Earth." Three anonymous individuals combined to do the same for "Mother Courage."

A dozen Princeton firms are already listed as "Patrons," contributing $100 or more: Adams Rental and Sales, Brokaw Engineering, Carnegie Realty, Center for Professional Advancement, C.E.C., Henderson Realty, Judy's Florist, Kempner Tregoe, Karl Light Realty, C.A. Neice Company of Lambertville, Princeton Bank and Trust, Radio Station WH-WH.

"How well the community will support McCarter—especially corporate business—is vital," Mr. McCleery emphasizes. "There is no question that the theatre is an enormous asset to the whole area, and it would be a great loss if it couldn't continue."

And speaking of community support... actors need housing. Got any room? Eventually, Mr. Kahn wants to do experimental theatre—midnight presentations, "done with care" in a downstairs rehearsal room. To do this, he needs a company of actors solidly anchored in the community.

And all work is better, he says, when actors are living here, and need not exhaust themselves commuting.

"Actors are well-behaved, house-broken, charming, and laden with children," he smiles, "people already have opened up their houses wonderfully, but we need more...."

Violent Argument Results in Death of Woman Whose Parents Once Lived on Mt. Lucas Road

Miss Rachel Ann Maren, 21, of Stony Brook Road in Hopewell Township, was fatally beaten last Monday evening, police said, in her home by John L. Reints, a 31-year old guitar maker and former draft counselor with whom she had been living.

Miss Maren died at 12:05 p.m. Tuesday in Hunterdon Medical Center from a brain hemorrhage. An autopsy revealed that she died from a blow to the left side of the head, according to Dr. David A. Fluck, Mercer County pathologist.

Mr. Reints has been charged with murdering Miss Maren after the pair engaged in an argument in the house they had shared for close to three years on the property of the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roger H. Maren. Before moving to Hopewell Township, the Marens had lived here at 854 Mt. Lucas Road.

The accused was arraigned in Hopewell Township Court before Judge Robert Moore last Tuesday afternoon and held on $50,000 bail. Mr. Reints was released Thursday afternoon after a hearing in which the bail was reduced to $25,000.

Case to Grand Jury. Hopewell Township police Chief Michael Maloney indicated Monday that his department would probably submit its evidence in the case by the end of next week to the Mercer County Grand Jury. He speculated that the jury might rule on a prospective indictment by late June.

Chief Maloney also revealed that early indications that Mr.

Reints would also be investigated by Washington, D.C., police for the rape and fatal stabbing of a young New England woman in the capital in 1973 have not been further pursued by Washington police through his department. He surmised the speculation, based on Mr. Reints' friendship with the 1973 victim, may be groundless.

Miss Maren was found unconscious by Hopewell Township Officer William Seas on Monday evening after Mr. Reints had called the Hunterdon Medical Center to report that he was going to bring the girl to the hospital in his car. The center advised him to call an ambulance, and then it notified the police.

It was reported that Mr. Reints attempted to give the victim mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. The case was taken up by Hopewell Township Patrolman Emil Erdelsky and Senior Patrolman John Milewski, in addition to a detective from the Mercer County Prosecutor's office.

There is no information as to what instruments Mr. Reints may have used during the fight or as to how the fight started. Neighbors told reporters that the young couple had engaged in frequent "loud" arguments in recent months.

Worked in Princeton. Mr. Reints, a native of South Dakota, built guitars and was still active at Princeton University with draft counseling, neighbors reported, although he was not a student there.

Mr. Reints had worked with Miss Maren's father beginning seven years ago in the Fellowship of Reconciliation in Princeton as a draft counselor. He also reportedly worked at one time at PJ's Pancake House and later at The Annex Restaurant.

Mr. and Mrs. Maren told police that they had not been on close terms with the couple since they began living with each other in the rustic structure the parents had earlier permitted Mr. Reints to build on their property.

Their daughter had been first in her class at Hopewell Valley Central High School and had earned early college placement after her junior year. She then went to Middlebury College in Vermont for a year.

Semi-finalist. Miss Maren was listed in November, 1970 as a National Merit Scholarship Semi-finalist for the 1970-71 year and was on the High Merit List at her school.

She is survived by her parents, Roger H. and Priscilla B.; her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Priscilla H. Newall, and a brother, Samuel Maren of Boston.

The funeral service was held privately. Memorial contributions may be made to the charity of the donor's choice.

What's Happened to Spring? It's Blown Away On Winds Recorded Here at Hurricane Force

"Spring," said weatherman David Ludlum, grabbing at his hat to keep it from blowing with the windspeed indicator's 61-mile-an-hour gust, "is somewhat indefinite this year."

"In fact," he said, retrieving his hat from a bare firethorn bush, "I don't see any spring at all."

Hurricane-force winds, they were, according to Mr. Ludlum, head of Science Associates. You call a wind "hurricane force" if it gets to 73 m.p.h. That 61 reading on the Ludlum's Riverside Drive indicator is pretty darned close, and Mr. Ludlum thinks there were higher gusts elsewhere in Princeton.

To complement the high winds, a low barometer. "It was an exceptionally deep storm," the weatherman says. "Deep" translates as a barometer anywhere below 29, and the Ludlum one went to 28.95, as low as a "normal" hurricane.

How It Started. It all began around 1 p.m. last Thursday after a morning of rain with south winds. "A front went through," the weatherman explains.

"Very cold air over Canada and the midwest—in fact, the coldest EVER—yes, the coldest ever recorded in mid-April for that part of the world. To the east, over the Atlantic, a lot of warm air came up from the tropics, and when that very cold air and the warm air got together, they made a real wind-storm."

The winds, in fact, were northwest-to-north, right off Hudson's Bay, which is still frozen tight.

"The storm moved off the coast of Maine and the south of Nova Scotia and stopped. Barometer fell to 28.60 up there," says Mr. Ludlum with some envy (he likes storms). "It stopped, the storm did, and stayed for four days."

The wind did begin to drop in the Princeton area by about 10 m.p.h. each day, and it was "only" 20 m.p.h. Tuesday morning.

It didn't get "coldest ever" around here. The record cold for this time of year is 12 degrees in 1923, and it's been a balmy 22.

Negligible Damage. Although more than one tense home-owner didn't sleep a wink all night, lest nightmares of ripped roofs and giant redwoods crashing through the chimney became all too real, it wasn't a damaging wind-storm.

Police, Borough and Township, report almost no action. A window blown at Thrift Drug in the Shopping Center. Half a dozen branches on wires.

"All our big ones are long since blown down," said one police officer. But Mr. Ludlum points out, shivering in his barometer, that it's still winter. Winds simply whistle through bare branches, and without resistance from leaves, cause little damage. There was a lot of self-pruning of trees and sidewalks are a jackstraw of twigs and branches.

Probably the storm was close to a record for sustained winds, Mr. Ludlum thinks; unfortunately, observers don't file their date in such a way that you can flip a file and find a wind-storm.

The Princeton area, with its 61-plus gusts, had about 30-35 m.p.h. of sustained winds, Mr. Ludlum says, but those gusts were so high and so frequent so that winds seemed higher.

Ahead? Winds will have gone by Wednesday of this week. If a storm system, stalled in the midwest, gets here, winds will move to southwest and south, but this is only temporary.

Cold will begin again and we'll have it this weekend, but not so cold and windy as before.

"Spring is indefinite," Mr. Ludlum repeats, kicking dolefully at a shivering daffodil. "I don't see any spring yet."

would not be renewed because of a decline in enrollment in the 800-student school. Presently, there are 93 on the faculty.

Mr. McClure has been Headmaster of PDS since it was formed ten years ago by the merger of Princeton Country Day School and Miss Fine's School. He was back at work the day after the shooting.

W. Harry Sayen, who also wrote a letter seconding Mr. Trotman's candidacy for membership, has also resigned, but not in protest over the matter. Mr. Sayen said that injured ligaments in his back have forced him to forego golfing as a hobby. He is, however, on record as favoring reconsideration by Springdale of its action against Mr. Trotman.

GOLF CLUB CHARGED With Discrimination. Because the membership application of Marvin Trotman was rejected last May by Springdale Golf Club, it has been charged by the State Division of Civil Rights with discriminatory "patterns and practices." A guidance counsellor and basketball coach at Princeton High School, Mr. Trotman is the first black to have sought election to membership at Springdale.

$10,000 CHECK BOUNCES Right Back to Its Owner. Three Princeton youths have been charged with the theft Thursday afternoon of a Expectations are that the question of the club's rejection of Mr. Trotman will hinge on its claim to operation as a private organization. Springdale's board of governors maintains that it is private, and has been since it was established nearly seven decades ago. The State has indicated that it will charge the club is not privately maintained, since Princeton University owns the land on which the course is located. The division of Civil Rights further maintains that a case against Springdale may exist regardless of ownership of the land, and will present the club's board of governors with interrogatories and a deadline for answering them.

Further steps, should the state determine that cause for legal action exists, would involve an attempt to achieve conciliation between the two parties. In the event that this fails, a public hearing would follow.

Two of those who urged Mr. Trotman's election have resigned from the club in protest over the board's decision. One is his original sponsor, the Rev. Blain C. Aldridge, an associate minister of Nassau Presbyterian Church. The other is one of four members who seconded Mr. Aldridge's proposal, F. Gilman Spencer, editor of The Trentonian.

TODAY'S FASHION QUESTION

What are the "best buys" in evening wear for this spring and summer?

Separates — long skirts with matching or contrasting tops and coordinated fashion-belts. In soft, spring hues.

Look-likes — New fabrics that "look like" silk and chiffon but cost less than half (and are easy-care, too). Also the sophisticated new styles that "look like" name-designer fashions.

Designer lines — For spring some name-designers have created sensational looks at "relaxing" prices by using lighter fabrics, easy styles.

$10,000 certified check from a pocketbook in an unlocked car.

Released in ten percent of $250 bail were Larry Copper, 19, 16 Shirley Court; Gerald L. Hall, 18, 44 Birch Avenue, and a 17-year old Township juvenile. The three had fled when Ptl. Peter Hanley tried to arrest them on Witherspoon Street near Avalon.

With the aid of other police who were called to the area by Albert Toto Jr. of Toto's Market, who had witnessed the three running away, two of the youths were apprehended hiding in the Baptist Church, the third was caught on John and Green Streets. The wallet was recovered in a trash can in the rear of the Youth Center building on the corner of Green and Witherspoon.

"Everything was recovered," said Capt. Theodore Lewis.

The distraught victim told police that the check, which she had just received that day from the bank, was to be used as a down payment on the purchase of a house. Her purse had been taken from the front seat of her car parked on Witherspoon and left in the gutter. Her wallet and the check were missing.

THREE ARE INDICTED

Public Library Planning Numerous Events In Observation of National Library Week

The Princeton Public Library and the Friends of the Library will celebrate National Library Week (April 14-19) with a number of special events. The Friends will serve coffee in the lobby to library users from 10-11:30 a.m., Monday through Saturday.

In cooperation with other public libraries in Mercer County, the Library will not charge fines on overdue materials during National Library Week. In addition, overdue materials from any public library in Mercer County may be returned to any other public library in the county during this period.

Special events during the week include pre-school story hours on Monday, at 10:30 and 1:30. These programs will feature readings and filmstrips and are suggested for children ages 3½-5.

The Movie "I Heard the Owl Call My Name" will be shown on Tuesday, at 1 and 8. This story, about an Anglican Priest's life with Indians, is based on the novel by Margaret Craven and stars Tom Courtenay and Dean Jagger.

The popular series, Readings Over Coffee will meet on Wednesday, at 10. Dr. Donald Ecroyd will read from the tales of Frank R. Stockton, including "The Lady or the Tiger."

On Wednesday afternoon at 3:30, Bernice Schwartz, author of "Life in a Log," will present an ecology workshop. Attendance is limited to 25 children ages 7-10. Advance registrations should be made at children's desk.

"Book Break" will be held on Friday, April 18, and will feature books on the American Revolution. This discussion, for readers 9-14 years old, is part of a weekly series held each Friday at 3:30.

During National Library Week the Library will preview the bicentennial with a window and table display of books, maps and pamphlets relating to the American Revolution. This will include handcrafted models of Rockingham and Old Nassau Street by G. Vinton Duffield.

The public will have an opportunity to make suggestions and comments about the Library, its services and programs. A box will be located in the lobby and interested persons may drop their comments for review by the board of trustees and the staff.

Fowler, all of Trenton, were charged with armed robbery, atrocious assault and battery, and possession of a dangerous weapon. The Mercer County Grand Jury has indicated them on a basis of evidence submitted by the prosecutor's office and a trial will follow.

Mr. and Mrs. Fulmer were attacked on the night of December 14 as they were approaching their car in a Princeton Theological Seminary parking lot near Library Place. Mrs. Fulmer was struck repeatedly with a heavy weapon police believe was a billy club.

Mr. Fulmer was grabbed from behind, a knife held at his throat and his wallet taken. After the men escaped in a car which police said the woman drove, Mr. Fulmer drove his wife to Princeton Medical Center, where she was treated for head injuries.

The trio was arrested on January 16 in Palmer Square. Borough police saw them riding in a 1975 model car which they had rented in Virginia, using one of Mr. Fulmer's credit cards.

"FREEDOM AWARDS"

To Three, in Princeton. Three well-known residents of the Princeton area will be honored this Sunday by "Freedom Awards" presented by the Central Jersey Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Joseph P. Moore, Borough Council member; Joan Hill, executive director of the Princeton Joint Commission on Civil Rights and Len Rivers, newly-appointed head baseball coach at Princeton University, will receive the citations.

Presentations will be made at 2:30 p.m. at Angelinos', Whitehorse-Mercerville Roads. Tickets, at $10 each, may be ordered from Grace Wilson, NAACP director, 201-297-2615.

Mr. Moore is assistant dean of faculty and director of the Trenton Center of Mercer County Community College. A 1960 graduate of Princeton High, he holds a master's degree from Newark State College. He is in his second term on Borough Council, and is Borough Police Commissioner.

Ms. Hill has been director of the Civil Rights Commission for almost two years. She is a PHS graduate also, and holds a degree from Central State University in Wilberforce, Ohio.

Mr. Rivers, also a Princeton High School graduate, holds a degree in physical education from Springfield College (1957). He came to Princeton University in 1973 as assistant football coach and will continue to hold that position when he becomes head baseball coach on July 1.

CHECK PASSER CAUGHT

3 Stores Are Victims. A Trenton resident, George B. Kish, 24, has been arrested and charged with cashing forged and stolen checks at three stores in Princeton.

Kish is presently free in his own recognizance, pending an appearance Wednesday in Borough court. He was arrested at police headquarters by Det. Ronald Holiday.

Kish allegedly cashed worthless checks for $117.35 at Community Liquors on Witherspoon Street, $105.84 at the Watch Shop on Chambers Street, and $98.72 at Center Business Machines on Nassau Street.

WHERE TO BEGIN? Thousands of cartons of books make preparations difficult and prospects pleasurable for this year's Bryn Mawr Book Sale to begin on Wednesday, April 23, in the Borough Hall gym. Bryn Mawr alumnae Mrs. John W. Claghorn, Jr., Mrs. Robert C. Gunning, Mrs. F. Baldwin Smith and Mrs. Douglas Delaney discuss plans to sort over 150,000 volumes into 40 categories.

Also arrested last week was another Trenton resident, 18-year old Gregory P. Lewis.

He has been charged with trespassing at Wilcox Hall early Sunday morning while a dance was in progress at the university dormitory and with assaulting two university students. He also faces a hearing in court on Wednesday.

NADER TO SPEAK

On Nuclear Power Risks. Ralph Nader, well-known consumer advocate, will speak on "The Nuclear Power Gamble" on Wednesday, April 23, at 8 in Alexander Hall, Princeton University. His visit is sponsored by the Citizens Committee for Responsible Power Policies, based in Princeton.

Mr. Nader believes U.S. citizens are not alert to the potential hazards of nuclear power. He points out, "With more and more nuclear plants turning out electric power, we must do more to prevent accidents that could kill thousands today and genetically harm tomorrow's generations."

Mr. Nader's host group notes that among the 1000 nuclear power plants contemplated nationwide by the year 2000 are 15 reactors planned for the Delaware River Valley. The committee feels that these pose serious questions for residents of the area to consider, not only in terms of possible power plant accidents, but in terms of safe plant design, storage of radioactive waste, the threat of theft and sabotage, and their own limited insurance protection.

Petition Drive. The Citizens Committee for Responsible Power Policies has sponsored a petition drive in this area in conjunction with the national Task Force Against Nuclear Pollution. To date, over 150,000 signatures have been collected, the goal being one million before the 1976 elections.

With the future of nuclear power reaching a critical crossroads, the group often quotes a former Princeton resident who realized the far-reaching implication of the problems involved. Albert Einstein stated: "The future of nuclear power must be decided in the town square of America."

METERS ARE TARGET

Of Vandals. The glass in 16 parking meters on Witherspoon Street between Green and Clay was smashed Friday by vandals.

Cars were also a target. A Princeton resident reports that windshield, antenna and outside mirror of his car was broken while it was parked in a private yard in the rear of 106 Nassau Street.

The wires were pulled off and one spark plug was removed from the engine of a car, owned by a University student, that was parked between 5 and 8:45 p.m. Sunday in the University Store lot. The left front vent window of a car parked Saturday in the Witherspoon Street lot was broken but the owner, a Witherspoon Street resident, told police that nothing was taken.

The convertible top of a car owned by Louis Deffaa, 18 Vandeventer, was slashed last week while he was attending a meeting at the Unitarian Church. His car had been parked in the church lot.

BICYCLE IS STOLEN

...And Recovered. A 10-speed bicycle valued at $120 was stolen from a garage last week in the Borough and recovered Saturday in the Township. It was returned to its Tulane Street owner.

A silver sugar and creamer and tray valued at $200 was stolen last week between 11:45 a.m. and 2 p.m. from "Prospect" on the university campus. A Humbert Street resident attending a dance in Wilcox Hall Saturday night lost $100 when his wallet was taken from his coat which he had left hanging on a chair in a dining room.

GOLD WATCHES STOLEN

Valued at $1000 Each. A gold wristwatch and a gold pocketwatch, valued at $1,000 each, were stolen between 6:30 and 11:30 p.m. Thursday from a student's room in Patton Hall on the university campus.

Also taken, police said, were a 35mm camera and lens valued at $420, a $50 calculator and a women's compact worth $18.

Taken during the weekend from a third floor office at 18 Nassau Street were an IBM electric typewriter valued at $800, two calculators ($160), a radio and $50 in petty cash. A window had been forced to get inside, police said.

A typewriter valued at $175 was taken last week from an office in Dickinson Hall on the University campus. There were no signs of forced entry, police said.

A lock was pried off a door to enter University Cleaners and Laundry, 30 Moore Street. Once inside, the thief entered a main office and took a radio valued at $17.98.

DINNER DANCE PLANNED
To Benefit Hun School. The annual dinner dance for the benefit of The Hun School will be held Saturday, May 10, in the school Athletic Center. Invitations are now in the mail for this event, traditionally sponsored by the Mothers' Auxiliary, and enjoyed by a large group of parents and friends every spring for the benefit of the school's Scholarship Fund.

MAN IS CHARGED
In Check Caper. A Princeton resident is being held by Franklin Township police after he allegedly tried to cash a stolen check Saturday at the Franklin State Bank in Kingston.

Charges from Borough police against George McGowan 3d, 28, 246 John Street, are also pending. Police said that he had used a stolen driver's license for identification in attempting to cash the stolen checks. Also in his possession at the time of his arrest, said Captain Theodore Lewis of the Borough police, were keys to the Princeton University dining hall and Dillon Gym.

Hun School is expanding yearly, has a new Activities Center dedicated last fall, and next year will welcome its first group of girl boarding students.

Borough police had received a report at 1:23 p.m. from a University student who told them that someone had entered her unlocked room earlier that morning, probably while she was showering and her roommate was asleep. Her wallet and Trenton are co-chairmen of checkbook were taken from her purse.

A "cordon bleu" dinner will be served and dancing will be enjoyed to the music of Mike Carnay of New York. Before dinner, cocktails will be served in various parents' homes and a large group will gather with members of the committee at the Athletic Center.

Police added that shortly after the victim called, a man came to her room and told her he had found her wallet minus the money. The victim told police that she noticed some checks were missing from her checkbook. They were drawn on the Franklin State Bank.

Mrs. Moore Gates, Jr., is president of the sponsoring auxiliary and also is chairman of hostesses with Mrs. John M. Reeder. Mrs. James J. Hughes, Jr. of Princeton and Mrs. Paul H. Plough of Princeton are co-chairmen of the dinner dance. They are aided by the following committee:

Detective Timothy Huizing called bank officials to be on the lookout for the checks. About 5 p.m., Franklin Township police notified the Borough that they had arrested McGowan. Capt. Lewis commented that Borough police are not sure if it was McGowan who returned the missing wallet, but that "he fits the description" supplied by the victim.

FIRE DINNER SET

By Junction Volunteers. The Princeton Junction Volunteer Fire Company will hold its annual family-style roast beef dinner this Sunday from 1 to 5 in its new hall at 950 Alexander Road.

"We're all in a holding pattern now until they act," said Princeton Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley Tuesday. He speculated that Pennington is still bitter over treatment by the state ten years ago, but he added his belief that since Pennington already has its sewer engineering studies and state approval for collector lines, the municipality will eventually act. "I'm not clear what further assurances they want," the mayor said.

The state is paying 15 percent of the sewer and Federal money 75 percent. The mayor expressed the worry that Pennington's delay could cause the Authority to lose the 15 percent, in view of New Jersey's tight financial situation. "If we lose that money, local governments will have to make it up, and that will cost Pennington more, too," he said, "I can't believe that will happen, but I'm shaken."

DONATIONS SOUGHT

For Hospital Fete. Cooperation and contributions from residents of the Princeton area are being sought to assure the success of the annual Fete which benefits the Princeton Medical Center. It will take place this year on Saturday, May 31.

Many people have already been working for months on plans and projects, but they need the help and cooperation of many more people in the Princeton area to make the "Great Fete" a great success.

The Lane of Shops will welcome contributions of hand-made creations and useful or decorative items from attics, storage cupboards or clothes closets. The White Elephant plans to sell useful and interesting household articles, from dishes to decorations. Contributions in good, clean, and workable condition will be collected—call 359-5040 or 359-5306.

The Treasure Trunk will feature hand-crafted or decorated specialties. Those who have a talent for turning out pretty bags or baskets, stuffed animals or clever whatnots should call 921-3142 or 924-2185.

The Teen Tent will present a contemporary collection of jeans, personalized tee-shirts, decorated work shirts and second-hand popular records. Contributors or willing workers should call 924-1195 or 921-1215.

Second Time Around is the emporium of elegance at cut-rate cost and the bargain booth of usable clothes at affordable prices. All contributions must be in good condition, clean and reasonably modern in style. (No hats, shoes or underwear can be accepted.) Call 921-8798 or 924-3015.

Because of cancellation of the Spring Rummage Sale, contributors who have saved things to donate can have them picked up now for storage until the Fall Rummage Sale, which will be held October 7 and 8. Call 924-4636 or 924-4652 for information.

Fabrics Plus is just that, a fabulous collection of fabrics for all purposes, plus patterns

All the donations for the Auction at the Great Fete can be made through members of the Collection Committee. The Auction will welcome silver, china, glass and furniture—antique or modern—and other unusual articles. All donations are tax-deductible.

If a cross-country move or the settlement of an estate has created some homeless left-overs, call the nearest member of the Collection Committee for prompt action. Committee members are:

Mrs. G B Deal, 187 Library Place, 921-8396.
Mrs. George F. Hutchinson, Jr., 174 Springdale Rd, 924-3895.

and sewing sundries. Anyone with a few yards of left-over material, un-used buttons, spools of thread, etc., can deposit them in donations barrels at Clayton's on Palmer Square, the Fabric Shop on Chambers Street, or the Red Pincushion in Hopewell. Or call 466-0824, 466-1107, or 466-1161.

The Jewel Box is brand new this year, selling antique and modern jewelry, small silver pieces, enamelled boxes, beaded bags, and dressing table accessories such as silver mounted mirrors. Old pieces which need repairs can be accepted if they are contributed early enough for the work to be done. Call 924-1538.

WANT A SLIDE SHOW?

On Regional Growth. Shopping centers and woodlands, traffic and farmland—a slide show presenting graphically the development problems facing the Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer tri-county area is available for the asking to organizations who would like to show it at meetings or classes.

The show, its script written by Philip Minis of Princeton, was premiered last Wednesday at a meeting sponsored by the Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer Regional Study Council. The Council hopes to raise $100,000 to $150,000 for consultants who would do studies on sewers, stream corridors, housing or transportation. These studies could be used by towns with little money of their own for such surveys.

A bank-not identified by name—is backing the distribution of the slide show.

Speakers at Wednesday's Council dinner meeting were Henry S. Patterson, Council president; C. McKim Norton, vice-president and Bruce McClellan, headmaster of Lawrenceville School. They underscored the need for an official organization to carry out a regional planning process for the region, an organization which would cut across county and municipal borders. Meanwhile, the M.S.M. group hopes to fill the gap.

Mr. Patterson, agreeing with the need for official studies, added however that a non-affiliated group like the M.S.M. Council can be free of pressures from institutional or municipal sources.

Jebens of Skillman $15 for speeding.

Questions and Answers.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Is it true what they said in the papers that the people at the May-Day Fair can only exhibit their things that they make?

If so, why? I never sold anything before at this Fair and then this year I got this idea for making something and I worked really hard for the last month or so to get ready for the Fair. And I just couldn't believe that we couldn't sell them. I was so disappointed.

I have two sisters that sold stuff last year and were planning to this year, too. We also have lots of friends in the same situation. I didn't read the article myself but was told that the merchants were protesting.

I couldn't believe it. For only one day they wouldn't let the people sell things because for that one day they didn't get as much business? I can't see that one day would make that much of a difference for the stores. But it would for me.

LISA HOMMEL
45 Monroe Lane

(Editor's note:) It isn't really an "art people party," or a "May-Day Fair" say its sponsors, the Arts Council of Princeton. It's the start of the Bicentennial: Princeton's own celebration of its own 200 years of independence, and the theme is "Nassau Street: A Living Museum."

Music, dancing, paintings, balloons, artisans demonstrating crafts of the past 200 years, nostalgia from the past—all the trappings of celebration. But no craft selling. And not because merchants dictated it thus; because Princeton's Bicentennial committee and the Arts Council think this is an appropriate way to celebrate.

Artists who would like to sell their wares are invited to call Jane Krane at the Princeton Shopping Center (921-6324) to make inquiries about exhibiting and selling at the Center's "Community Day."

A Hazardous Decision.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The recent decision of the Princeton Regional School Board to eliminate busing along hazardous routes has implications for many parents who are probably unaware of it. In eliminating hazardous busing money from the school budget, the responsibility was passed to the municipalities.

The municipalities, however, are not required by law to bus, and have no provisions in their budgets to do so. Instead, they are trying to provide bicycle paths as safe routes to walk or bike—a worthy goal, but naturally slow to be implemented. In the meantime, who will provide transportation for children who otherwise must walk or bike along unsafe roads to get to school?

In Johnson Park alone, more than 60 children (77 right now) within two miles of school are now bused because there is no safe way for them to walk or bike to school. Next year, despite a lovely, new bicycle path along the old trolley track between Elm Road and Johnson Park, there will be at least as many who will be expected to walk or bike along hazardous routes.

The reason? Because access to the bicycle path will provide new mileage measurements. For example, children on parts of Red Hill Road who live two miles from Johnson Park by this year's measurement will be less than two miles next year. Are they really to be expected to walk along Route 206?

There are similar examples in the Johnson Park Area and throughout the Princeton Regional School District. Middle School and High School students will be affected (many will be expected to walk along Cherry Hill Road), as well as elementary school students.

A large group of present bus riders who will not be bused next year are the children in the Hibben-McGee apartments—they must walk to Riverside. Busing (with a few exceptions, such as for integration) will only be provided for K-8 graders who live more than two miles from school, and high schoolers more than 2.5 miles from school.

Children who have a safe route to school should be encouraged to walk or bike. But obviously children who don't have a safe route to travel will be driven by their parents. With all the emphasis on public transportation in this town, including subsidy of loop buses, it doesn't make sense, ecologically or any other way, to push school transportation back in the laps of parents.

Perhaps it appears economically sound now, but what it really means is that increased vehicular traffic is being condoned and encouraged. This directly contradicts all the environmental-conscious measure that have been taken in the recent past.

Though the School Board isn't legally bound to bus, it has a moral obligation to be concerned about the safety of children attending school, as do we all. If it's impossible for hazardous busing money to be included in the school budget, as it seems to be, school board members and municipal officials should be encouraged to work closely together so that busing along hazardous routes will be provided until non-hazardous routes are established.

Housing Need Is Urgent.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Your article, "Little effect...Anticipated from Court Ruling..." (TOWN TOPICS, March 27) is really very disappointing. True, the subject of housing has been debated and debated and debated and debated, but "a wide spectrum of housing" cannot be proved.

As long as elderly citizens must move to Meadow Lakes and Rossmore, or elsewhere,

As long as our sons and daughters are forced to rent apartments in peripheral towns,

As long as locally-employed persons are unable to locate housing of their choice,

As long as students at our educational institutions cannot find housing,

As long as citizens must "make application" for housing with selection approved by government,

As long as there is a sewer problem rumored to be purposely unsolved to prevent more housing,

As long as two-story barracks-type "townhouses" (which destroy wide areas of land for few people to keep the population down) are favored over buildings such as Hibben, Magee or the Lawrence apartments,

We will continue to have exclusionary and variance zoning and never a "wide choice of housing."

There are over 4,000 undeveloped acres here. We have had 20 or more years of housing surveys costing the taxpayers thousands of

Clean-Up Week Starts April 21

Attics, garages, storage closets, the very yard itself are all sources of grist for the Clean-up Week mill. The spring "Week" will begin in both Borough and Township on Monday, April 21, and will continue through that week, ending Friday.

Both municipalities require leaves and lawn debris in bags (or cartons, in the Township). You may put out anything—old washing machines or tractor tires—so long as one man can carry it.

The Township wants branches and twigs in bundles no more than 12 inches in diameter, tied with rope or twine (no wire). Larger branches should be "neatly stacked in short lengths."

Township collection: Trash must be placed at curbside by 8 a.m. All streets within a district will be patrolled at 4:30 p.m. on collection day, and streets completely cleared will be noted. Collection is as follows, by election district:

Monday: Districts 1, 4
Tuesday: Districts 5, 6, 10
Wednesday: Districts 3, 9, 12
Thursday: Districts 2, 11
Friday: Districts 7, 8, 13

Borough collections will be made on regular garbage collection days.

dollars. Local building contractors have had lay-offs recently.

What better time than right now to get on with Princeton's major need?

"Of the Highest Order."

To the Editor of Town Topics:

We have recently been patients at the Princeton Medical Center and one of us recuperated at the Merwick facility after surgery. We would like to express publicly our feeling that the quality of care provided by the Medical Center Complex is of the highest order. The competence of the medical staff and the dedication of nurses, orderlies, aides, and other employees is exceptional—not to mention the interest and concern of volunteers.

We both feel extremely fortunate to be part of a community with medical services of such high caliber.

A Jewel in Our Midst.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

My thanks to Mesdames Carlson, Kogan and Lamkin, the children's librarians in the Princeton Public Library, who have once again planned and executed the impossible: this time, a party for three and four year olds.

Needless to say, the youngsters delighted in a movie, stickers, decorations, pinwheels and cupcakes, but the extraordinary thing is that the librarians not only survive these onslaughts but seem to enjoy them. Princeton's Public Library is a jewel—and one to be valued accordingly.

Keep Loop Bus Running.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am glad to hear that the "loop bus" is still making its rounds about Princeton every weekday. The seats are no longer as empty as they were several months ago. In fact, an average of nearly one thousand people a week now ride the bus, thus it is serving its purpose well.

TESTS BRING FINES

Lie Detector Use Illegal. Details of prosecutions completed against a firm for having required employees to take lie detector tests as a condition of employment have been issued by Joseph A. Hoffman, Commissioner of the N. J. Department of Labor and Industry.

Somerset Farms Dairy Inc. pleaded guilty to the charges at two separate court hearings and was fined a total of $450. Judge Robert Moore levied a $200 penalty in Hopewell Township Municipal Court on February 13, based on the fact that the firm gave psychological stress evaluator lie detector tests to four workers in the chain's store on Route 31, Pennington.

On February 25, in Hopewell Borough Municipal Court, Judge Nicholas Cassaro fined Somerset $250 on charges of administering evaluator test to employees in its store at 48 West Broad Street, Hopewell.

The stress evaluator tests were given by a Dektor Intelligence Corporation employee together with a company employee. The machine is a tape recorder device which measures voice fluctuations.

Deputy Attorney General Douglas Widman presented each of the cases on behalf of the Department's Wage and Hour Bureau. This is the first instance where conviction has been obtained on the use of the psychological stress evaluator.

In 1966, a state statute against requiring employees to take lie detector tests was passed by the Legislature. The statute makes it a disorderly persons offense for an employer to give polygraph tests as a condition of employment or continued employment.

NEW WAGON ON DISPLAY

At W-H Motors. A four-door station wagon version of the Audi Fox has been introduced by Porsche-Audi and is now on display at the W-H Motors showroom on Arctic Parkway in Ewing Township.

The new wagon features a 1600cc fuel injection engine, acceleration from 0 to 50 in 8.5 seconds and a top speed of more than 100 miles an hour. EPA ratings give the new wagon 34 miles to a gallon on the highway and 24 in the city.

According to W-H executive Milton Epstein, the wagon's interior seats five with the rear seat up and provides 53.7 cubic feet of luggage space with the rear seat folded down. It is completely carpeted and has foam-filled reclining front bucket seats.

Standard features include a remote controlled side view mirror, quartz electric clock, "Child proof" locks, rack and pinion steering, and a rear window defogger. Standard are steel belted radial tires and power disc brakes, while a fully automatic transmission and air conditioning are among the options available.

Police add that Mrs. O.J. Steih, staying at the home, received a bump on the head as she rushed out a doorway carrying bedding that was on

Memorial Association Topic. "The Cost of Dying and What You Can Do About It," a talk by Raymond P. Arvio, who wrote the book, will be featured at the annual meeting of the Princeton Memorial Association, to be held Sunday, April 20, at 8 p.m. at the Jewish Center, 435 Nassau. The public is invited to attend.

Mr. Arvio is a lecturer at Queens College in consumer affairs. He will discuss his belief that the funeral industry is about to face the consumer activism that has affected almost every other industry in the country.

The Princeton Memorial Association was formed to help its members plan for death. The Association encourages people to plan ahead for funerals, providing information on funeral directors, the services they offer and relative costs. The Association does not make specific recommendations to its members, but offers information on subjects like cremation, organ donation, the donation of bodies to medical schools and so on, so that members can make informed choices.

Membership blanks are

PDS LACROSSE WINS

Opening Game is Romp. On an extremely blustery day even for early April, the Princeton Day School lacrosse team easily outmanned the wind, expected first-game sloppiness, and its Essex Catholic High School opponents with a 12-2 victory last Friday.

The team was scheduled to play Edison High School its foremost B Division rival on the basis of pre-season forecasts, this Wednesday. Then PDS will be afforded a relative breather on Saturday versus Montville High School at home before facing a rebuilding Blair Prep team next Wednesday on the road.

Coach Chuck Simpson, blessed with 16 lettermen yet only three seniors, was pleased with the opening game results, especially the play of his transplanted hockey contingent, who scored all 12 of the PDS goals.

Simpson selected junior David O'Connor as recipient of his informal "Man of the Game" award, based on the attackman's unexpected four-goal scoring performance. O'Connor was amply supported by Bill Erdman and Dich Gordon, with three markers apiece, and Tom Moore and Steve Judge who added one goal each to their former hockey net-cutting.

Subs in Second Half. Simpson's club was only momentarily challenged when Essex converted a shot that ricocheted off both poles from an "incredible" angle and brought the score to 3-1.

But after that, goalie Rick Olson was "never really tested," noted Simpson, making ten saves and allowing only one "fluke" more. The lopsided contest enabled Simpson to substitute freely the entire second half from his 37-man squad, that also includes 13 juniors, 5 sophomores, and 16 freshman.

One freshman is already a starter at midfield. He is Rick Olson's younger brother Rob, whom Simpson credits with excellent stick skills and a healthy 180-pound frame.

It is size, in fact, that concerns Simpson most in considering his team's hopes for the state Division B title, contested by both the smaller high schools and prep schools. Simpson says that invariably the high school teams are bigger, and "if they don't have the stickwork, they get physical."

For PDS, which has good stickwork, ample experience and some size, the determining factor this season may well be whether PDS can also be physical when necessary, especially against a team like Edison which Simpson says has "some" stickwork to supplement its pure size.

ALL-STARS TRIUMPH

Defeat Joint Effort. For the second consecutive year, the Princeton Recreation Adult League All-Stars defeated the league's finest team. This year, however, it took a considerably larger effort as the All-Stars had to fight back from a 65-50 deficit in the third quarter to an action-packed 105-101 triumph.

The All-Stars rallied in the late stages of the game behind a good running attack and good inside play by both Joe Brnkaw and Frank Scott. Frank Scott, who won the game's most valuable player trophy, scored 20 of his 27 points in the fast and furious second half. Joe Brokaw also finished with 27 points for the All-Stars as he shot consistently from all angles of the key.

Joint Effort received a fine performance from Bob Slaughter as he led all scorers with 32 points. But as the game progressed into its later stages, Joint Effort failed to get back on defense quickly enough as the All-Stars continued to run relentlessly.

A lay-up by Dennis Wilson with 1:30 remaining put the All-Stars ahead, 99-97. Although Joint Effort continued to score, the All-Stars began a semi-stall and managed to score on several key lay-ups.

Doug Battle, John Bailey and John Madden also played a strong game for Joint Effort while Dennis Wilson, Steve Towns and Larry Reaves contributed significantly to the All-Star victory.

PHS IS 9-1 LOSER

In Baseball Opener. The Princeton High School baseball team spoiled the debut of its new coach Jim O'Neill here Tuesday when it dropped a 9-1 decision to Hamilton.

The Little Tigers, hoping for some warm weather—and a few more hits—will get three chances next week to win that first one. They will be at Notre Dame Friday and then play host to Lawrenceville Monday and Trenton on Tuesday. They were scheduled to entertain Hopewell Valley this Wednesday afternoon. All games start at 3:45.

Princeton scored its only run in the first when Paul Soderman singled, advanced to third on two passed balls and came home on Don Seitz's infield grounder. Held to three hits by Hamilton's Mike Kerlin (2-0), PHS did not get another hit until the seventh when catcher Tony Ferrara and third baseman Mike Bocciafuso singled but they were left stranded.

Softball Tournament Here

A softball tournament will be held Saturday and Sunday, May 3-4, at Community Park—marking the first time an event of this kind has been held in Princeton. Sixteen teams will compete in the double-loss elimination event.

All adult softball teams in the Princeton area are invited to compete. Those interested should call Jim Pirone at 921-8424.

started on the mound for PHS but was raked for three runs in the first and four more in the second before departing in favor of senior Dave Kodner. "They hit everything I threw," said Watson about the Hornets, who had routed Rancocas Valley, 14-1, in their opener. O'Neill attributed his team's shaky start to "first game jitters." Princeton's first two scheduled games had to be postponed because of poor weather.

APPLICATIONS READY

For Summer Sports Camps. The Princeton Day Sports Camp is accepting applications from boys and girls 8-18 for this summer's series of one-week camps that will begin with football and co-ed tennis on June 23. Other featured sports are basketball and soccer.

Soccer sessions will be held from June 30 to July 4 for girls and from July 7 to 11 for boys, both to be directed by Bill Killen of Yale University. Players, each given a ball, will be formed into six teams that will play two games per day.

Basketball players will have two sessions from July 14-18 and July 21-25, both co-ed and co-directed by PDS basketball coach Alan Taback and Dan Kelly of St. Joseph's College. They, too, will play two games per day.

The football camp will be directed by PDS offensive coordinator Robert Hoffman, assisted by Frank Burns of Rutgers University and members of the Princeton University squad. Techniques of line and backfield play will be featured in the one-week session.

Video Tape. In addition to the June 23-27 tennis camp, other tennis sessions will be held from June 30 to July 4 and from July 7-11. They feature four hours of play (rain or shine) per day and video tape analysis of each camper.

Each camp is divided into three age groups, with the 30 available hours split half and half between instruction and competition. Camp director Alan Taback emphasized that, "the camps are really geared to the individual," changing in approach and intensity according to age level.

The tuition is $85 for one week, scaled progressively up to $350 for five sessions. Some 25 percent of the campers receive scholarships based on need, and team rates are also available.

COURT PLAY DELAYED

Weather Sets Back Tennis. Because of cold weather and high winds, the Community Park Tennis Courts are not scheduled to open until Saturday, April 19th at 9.

The unusually cold weather has prohibited use of the water which is essential to the preparation of the courts. The high winds also have made the spreading of the new surface extremely difficult.

The hard surface courts are presently open to Princeton residents. Sign up sheets are

TIGERS LOSE ANOTHER

Rutgers Tops Ball Team. 5-4 A 3-0 lead through six innings proved inadequate for Princeton's baseball team Tuesday, the Tigers losing on Clarke Field to Rutgers, 5-4 for their seventh defeat in 10 games. Captain Scott McHenry absorbed the set-back and has yet to win in three starts this season.

A three-run third got the Orange and Black away to a good start. Third baseman Ed Kuchar tripled and scored on an error, and catcher Jack Basta's single then drove in two more.

The Scarlet picked up its first run in the top of the seventh and added four more in the eighth. One of the tallies in that round was unearned.

Princeton rallied in the last of the ninth, scoring once and placing runners at the corners with two away. However, Basta grounded out to end the rally.

Following the New England trip this weekend (see Page 15B), the Tigers will travel to Villanova Tuesday and play Montclair State here Wednesday. A double-header with Navy at Annapolis, is on tap Saturday, April 19.

Eastern league action does not begin at home for the Orange and Black until Friday, April 25, when Columbia plays here. The Tigers are seeking their first title since 1951.

Extended Six Months. Park in the Park and Shop lots (Chambers Street or the Playhouse) and save parking money. Borough Council thinks the idea is good enough to extend for another six months and so voted Tuesday night.

Relief for all-day parkers who think they've been usurped by Park and Shop may be worked out by Council.

By a 4-1 vote, Council agreed to join the Township in paying for the recreation area on the north side of Route 206. Joseph P. Moore cast the "no" vote. "I regard this as an inappropriate expenditure in times like these," he said.

Half of the $330,000 cost will come from federal funds. The other half will be split, the Township paying two-thirds, the Borough one-third. None of the Borough's $55,000 share will have to be paid from this year's budget, Mayor Robert W. Cawley explained.

...On School Budget

At the initiative of the Princeton Regional Board of Education, an hour-long meeting was held Tuesday night at which the school board, Borough Council and Township Committee talked again about the school budget.

"Maybe this meeting can eliminate the need for the April 17 pre-hearing conference with the county superintendent of schools," said Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley this week, announcing the meeting. Municipal officials cut $258,000 from the defeated school budget and the school board appealed the cut to the state Commissioner of Education. The April 17 conference is the first step in that appeal.

"Maybe there is a basis for compromise," Mayor Cawley added. "But the board wanted a cut of only $130,000, and there's a big gap between that and $258,000."

Joseph Jingoli, with $5,705, was low bidder for installing concrete curb-cuts in bike paths. Castoro and Sons, with $6,340 was low bidder for paving the 525-square yard addition to the library parking lot, recently acquired from Public Service. The paving will add 20 spaces.

Recent bids have been below estimates, said Engineer Donald Harney, unless the project requires expensive asphalt. A paint bidding, for example, produced a bid $1,300 below estimates.

Council member Barbara Sigmund reported that dirt excavated from the library parking lot will build a playing hill in the Harrison Street playground.

From the audience, Hans Lechner, 15 Madison, asked Council to clarify bus-stop signs by noting the time the bus stops there, and its route. "If I'm at Cox's," he said, "and I want to go to the swimming pool, I don't know which direction to take a bus."

FLOWER SHOW PLANNED

On April 23, Spring flowers, a garden gazebo and watercolors await the visitor to the Standard Flower Show to be presented by the Lawrenceville Garden Club on April 23.

To be held in the Youth Center of the Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church from 2 until 8, this annual show is open to the public, both as spectators and as exhibitors. Lawrenceville artist Helen Manning will display her paintings in a garden setting designed by Herbert W. Kale of Kale's Nursery and Landscape Service. Refreshments will be served, donations will be accepted.

An artistic design division, open only to members, consists of eight classes, each interpreting a verse of poetry and utilizing fresh plant material as well as weathered wood, ceramics and hand-crafted items. Visitors seeking ideas for entertaining in their own homes will be interested in Class VI of this division, interpretive arrangements and place settings for the table.

The horticulture division is open to the public: Garden Club president Mrs. Robert J. Jones and show co-chairmen Mrs. Thomas W. Eglin and Mrs. E. Kenneth Snedeker, Jr., invite all gardeners to submit entries. Specimen plantings must be placed the evening before the show between 7 and 9:30. Those interested in displaying in this division may get further information from Mrs. Howard A. Cressman at 737-1209. Classes include Tulips, Narcissus, Other Bulbs, Flowering Trees and Shrubs, Perennials, Potted Plants, Terrariums, and Hanging Baskets. Call Mrs. Cressman for details on subdivisions of these classes, as well as information on containers, naming and exhibiting specimens.

DIABETES FILM SET

For Medical Center Showing. A new film, "Low Blood Sugar Emergencies in the Diabetic Child," will be shown by the Tri-County Chapter of the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation next Wednesday at 8 in meeting room One of Princeton Medical Center.

BACH PRELUDES LISTED

For Prayer Service. Five Bach choral preludes together with meditations and congregational song will be the chief elements in a service of music built around the traditional five fingers of prayer in Princeton Seminary's Miller Chapel Tuesday at 7:45. The service is open to the public.

Dr. Lee H. Bristol, Jr., chose the preludes, varied in style, as representing the spirit of the five chief forms of prayer: confession, petition, adoration, intercession and thanksgiving. Each is taken from a different period of Bach's life.

After Dr. Bristol has played each prelude, Dr. Erik Routley will give a brief meditation on one of the prayer forms and invite the congregation to participate in singing the Lutheran chorale on which Bach based that work.

Lee Hastings Bristol, Jr., former President of Westminster Choir College, has had distinguished careers also as a business executive, composer, writer, civic and religious leader.

The English-born Dr. Routley, the Visiting Director of Music at Princeton Seminary, will in September begin a new career as Professor of Church Music at Westminster Choir College.

BULLETIN NOTES

The PEER Group will present a program entitled "Cocktails and Pills", dealing with common responses to stress, next Wednesday at 8 in Fellowship Hall, behind the Blawenburg Reformed Church. Two speakers, Mrs. Garland Bradley of the Carrier Clinic and George Neeley a pharmacist, will discuss the use and abuse of alcohol, prescription drugs and non-prescription drugs, seeking to clarify the thin line between "use" and "abuse".

The Christ Congregation Church will hold a musical service of worship this Sunday at 10 Marilois Kierman will play selections from Dupre's The Station of the Cross and Stephen H. Owen will sing bass arias from Bach's Saint Matthew Passion.

The Unitarian Church will have a member of its own congregation, Hugh Janney of Pennington, as its guest preacher this Sunday at 10. He will address the subject, "Where Do I Go?—A Proposition for Inventing the Future."

OBITUARIES

W. Walton Butterworth, a career diplomat who served as ambassador to Sweden and Canada, died March 31 in Roosevelt Hospital, New York City, at the age of 71. A Princeton resident since his retirement in 1968, he lived at 30 Battle Road.

Mr. Butterworth's career, which spanned 40 years in diplomacy, at one point pitted him against the post-World War II China lobby. In 1946, he took part in the Marshall Mission to China, an attempt to mediate differences between Nationalist and Communist forces. During that mission, he aroused the opposition of T.V. Soong, a Nationalist leader, by reason of Mr. Butterworth's instrumental role in turning down a Nationalist plea for a large American loan.

Three years later when he was nominated as Assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs, he was assailed on the Senate floor as "a symbol of American failure in China" and was passed over 14 times before he was confirmed. His opponents were spokesmen for the then-powerful China lobby, the American supporters of Chiang-Kai-Shek.

Prior to his service in the Far East, Mr. Butterworth was director general for the United States Commercial Company, a government concern that bought up strategic materials in the world market to keep them from the Axis powers in World War II. He operated at the time from the Iberian Peninsula.

Following service in the State Department in Washington he was ambassador to Sweden for three years and then minister in London for six years, handling delicate talks with the European economic community. When the talks led to the formation of the Common Market, Mr. Butterworth was appointed the first ambassador to the organization.

He was later named a career ambassador, one of only seven at that time to hold the rank. In 1962, he became ambassador to Canada, negotiating the Automobile Manufacturers' Agreement, which effectively eliminated tariffs on vehicles and parts between the United States and Canada.

He is survived by his wife, the former Virginia Parker; a daughter, Cynthia Burns; a son, J. Blair; a sister, Mrs. Lloyd Morris, and two grandchildren.

A memorial service will be held on Saturday, May 3, at 3:30 in the Princeton University Chapel.

George Holenkoff, 85, a longtime resident of Princeton, died March 31 in Waterford, Conn.

Mr. Holenkoff was born in St. Petersburg, Russia. After attending the Polytechnical Institute, he served as an artillery officer in the Imperial Russian Army. The family lived in Lebanon until the outbreak of the second world war, when they moved to Princeton.

Mr. Holenkoff was associated with the art museum of Princeton University and his wife, Olga, taught French and Russian at Miss Fine's School. Mrs. Holenkoff died in 1969.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Helene Harper, and two grandchildren.

The service was held at the Russian Orthodox Church in Cassville, New Jersey.

A funeral was held in St. Paul's Church, with burial in the parish cemetery. Contributions may be made to the American Heart Association.

Mrs. Dorothy D. Figley, 59, of Sarasota, Florida, formerly of Lawrenceville, died April 1 at Princeton Medical Center's Merwick Unit.

Born in Leroy, N.Y., she lived in Sarasota, for the last four years. While living in Lawrenceville, she was resident supervisor at Rider College for 11 years. In Florida she was sales representative for a department store chain.

She is survived by a brother, Everett Dalsis of Olean, N.Y.; and two sisters, Mrs. Walter Hutchings of Hamburg, N.Y., and Mrs. George Conover of Princeton.

A private funeral was held in Leroy, N.Y., with interment in Machpelah Cemetery, also in Leroy.

Jens M. Olsen, 66, of Forest Avenue, Griggstown, died April 1 in Princeton Medical Center.

Born in Grimstad, Norway, Mr. Olsen lived in Griggstown since 1959. He retired as sales manager of National Lead Industries of Perth Amboy in 1971 after 45 years with the company.

He was a member of Olmans Clinton Lodge No. 446 of Forest Hills, N.Y.; Crescent Temple of Trenton; the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite of Valley of Trenton and the Princeton Shrine Club.

He leaves his wife, Madeline S. Olsen; a son, Ronald S. of Trenton; two daughters, Mrs. Doris Fredholm of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Judith Paulsen of Griggstown; a sister, Mrs. Sigrid Nelson of Gran Marais, Minn., and seven grandchildren.

but at country antiques can you find

An indigo blue and cream coverlet, signed by the intriguing name of Melissa Williams, 1846. It has seen some wear, but has compensations.

French fruit knives and forks, twelve of each actually survived. Handles are a wonderful deep shade of green, the metal part is vermeil. (Of course you know that means gold wash on sterling.) Definitely Parisian and old, they seem the ultimate in sophistication.

A four piece iron garden set, small settee, two chairs, and a table. Has old subtle charm of the twenties or earlier. Anyhow, well before the turn of the century. It is not a modern reproduction.

Sugar caster, pair of glass toilet water bottles, several tea caddies, one Bombay, all silver. Four matching tall candlesticks of Dutch silver, and very beautiful. A set of crystal finger bowls, and matching plates. Clear crystal with gold rims. Simple and distinctive. Wouldn't you enjoy having finger bowls again? Even if your butler is no more. Lobster and some other culinary treats make finger bowls an imperative.

Eight-Year Plan for Initial Development of Forrestal Center By University Would Create Living Community of over 12,000

People who live in the Princeton area were reminded again this week—in both practical and theoretical ways—of the growth potential of the part of the world they live in.

Princeton University asked the Plainsboro Planning Board to approve a 1,604-acre development project to be called the Princeton Forrestal Center, whose focus is the James Forrestal Research campus in Plainsboro; the Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer Regional Study Council warned that the pleasant countryside in the tri-county area could be wiped out by development unless growth is guided and controlled.

The University appeared before the Plainsboro board Monday night with its case. Decision is expected for at least two weeks. The University asked unconditional approval for Phase I of its plans and conditional approval for the entire package, under Plainsboro's Planned Multiple Use Development ordinance, passed last year.

A mix of uses, including places to work, shop, live, and enjoy open space, is the heart of the University's plans. They were outlined at a news conference Monday in advance of the presentation in Plainsboro.

UNIVERSITY'S NEW DEVELOPMENT: Plans for a development mixing office, commerce and housing were unveiled this week by Princeton University. Housing, between Lake Carnegie and Route One, will face the lake. University officials say the development is only one-third of that allowed by present Plainsboro zoning ordinances.

Eight-Year Plan. Phase I, which will take an estimated eight years to complete, will consist of:

- 250 acres for office, research and light industrial use.
- 600 town houses and apartments.
- a 400-room hotel and conference center.
- 136,000 square feet for shops and professional offices.
- the present James Forrestal Campus.

This phase will increase the population of the area by 12,200 and the population of Plainsboro by 3,400 people (1,130 households). The University estimates 830 more school children for the West Windsor Plainsboro system.

This first phase, said John P. Moran, the University's vice-president for facilities, is expected to add $125 million in rateables to Plainsboro Township, and to hold the inevitable tax increase to 10 percent, instead of a projected 21 percent.

Planners estimate that the office-research companies drawn to Princeton Forrestal Center will generate 4,800 new jobs. Some of these people will want to live in one of the 600 town house-apartment units, Mr. Moran said; others won't want to live so close to work and may decide on one of Plainsboro's 4,500 Princeton Meadows houses.

Low-Cost Housing. Housing will consist of one-to-four-bedroom units, mostly the two-and-three bedroom size. The University wants to find a developer who will build up to 20 percent of these units below market prices, and Mr. Moran emphasized that the University is "committed" to providing lower-income housing. However, the uncertain state of Federal subsidies means that details are still up in the air, he warned.

The housing units would be available to the general public on the open market, Mr. Moran said. He estimates that about 200 of the 600 units will be occupied by people working at various enterprises in the Center. It is expected that construction on these housing units will begin in about 18 months.

Mr. Moran said the University has undertaken the project for two reasons: to influence the quality of development in the area, and to get a better rate of return than the investment portfolio has been giving.

The Forrestal area is surrounded by land zoned for industry, and the University has been afraid of the "adverse impact that inappropriate development" could have on the area, and the University's own campus.

Mr. Moran wouldn't say what the Forrestal dollar investment is. Paul Firtenberg, the University's financial vice-president, said the institution is getting about 7 percent, on its various investments compared to 10 percent in 1972, and a "reasonable objective" of 9 percent.

Work to Be Contracted. The University is looking for tenants and developers, and won't be doing any building itself, Mr. Moran emphasized. So far, the only customer is the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, whose building is

PLAYERS AT WORK
On Season's Last Production. With a new director and a cast that includes five of their leading actors of recent years, the Princeton Community Players have begun rehearsing "And Miss Reardon Drinks A Little," by Paul Zindel, for an opening on May 16. This will be their final production of the season.

Kimothy Cruse, a resident of Kendall Park who works mainly in the New York theatre, is directing the comedy. He has had wide experience as an actor, both stage and film; as a production stage manager and assistant to various directors; and he has directed a number of groups in Massachusetts and New Jersey.

The cast of five women and one man whom he has chosen includes Liz Fillo, seen lately in "Black Comedy," "Carousel" and "Jacques Brel Is Alive and Well and Living in Paris"; Anne Judson, in last year's "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running"; Diana Crane, who appeared in "Toys in the Attic" and "The Madwoman of Chaillot";

Others are Lois Cohen, whose many local appearances include "The Caucasian Chalk Circle," "J.B." and "The Brothers Karamazov"; Lorin Zissman, a Players' veteran last seen in "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running"; and Melanie Haymond, the only newcomer to the Community Players. The small part of a delivery boy is yet to be filled.

FUNDS SOUGHT
To Support Street Theatre. Because of a recent cutback in funds, Street Theatre is asking for financial support from Princeton residents and businesses. Last week for the first time, an offer to advertise in Street Theatre's programs was made to establishments in and around Princeton.

Although business firms and merchants proved generous in supporting them, members feel it is time to solicit help from their most promising source—their audiences. In the past four years, the group has given summertime recreation to teens who might otherwise have been bored or idle. It has given young theatrical students a chance to grow in many areas of theater.

Plays are performed at many locations, including Palmer Square and Princeton High School. Members, mainly high school students, do their own directing, lighting, set, costumes, make-up and sound. In short, they do everything, including to some extent their own organization and management.

Pointing out that it is run strictly by its members for its members, Street Theatre has issued the following statement: "Each participant has a say in almost every decision. Because of this, many members feel a deep and sincere dedication to the group."

"It is this dedication, along with a hope that the organization can stay in existence, that has taken them to the Youth Fund, the New Jersey State Council on the Arts and to Princeton merchants. Soon it will bring them to the doors of Princeton residents. "When it does, it is hoped that you, the people of the town, will take the time to talk to them. Ask questions, and really listen to the answers. The youth of Princeton are concerned about this matter, and they are speaking up so that you will be, too. Listen, and you may be surprised at how much they have to say about Street Theatre."

Ballet Workshop of Princeton.
The dance-music concert will be given Saturday, April 19, at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of Princeton High School. Imogen Stooke Wheeler is director-choreographer of the Dance Workshop.

The three-part program will be devoted to pure music, pure dance and then a combination of the two. Ms. Wheeler said this week Perry Robinson has composed two works for the Workshop dancers—"Ragaroni" and a spoof on conventional ideas of Oriental dance called "Harem"—and they will be performed at the concert.

The Ballet Workshop, occupying the premises of the Aparri School of Dance, teaches a repertoire of classic ballet, folk and improvisation, and one of the dances on the program will be "Biljana," a Macedonian wedding folk dance. Another dance has been choreographed by Tim Wengard of the Martha Graham company.

Ms. Wheeler has conceived the program as a move into pure dance as an expressive and experimental form, a way of going outside the area of classroom technique.

A dancer in the Ballet Workshop who is acquainted with the Brubeck family, brought the two groups together.

OPEN AIR....
Theatre Schedule Announced. Uncertain April is rain and shine and wind, but the Open Air Theatre of Washington Crossing State Park is looking ahead to June, July and August and its 12th season of outdoor theatre entertainment.

As might be expected, the theatre will open with "Crossing," the Bicentennial musical about young James Monroe that ran last year in the Park and got some enthusiastic audience support. Opening night will be Thursday, June 19. "Crossing!" will play again June 20 and 21, and June 26, 27 and 28.

In "Hospital," patients are mislaid, wrong treatments are given as a matter of routine, a couple of doctors and a nurse are found dead, etc. etc. "Discreet Charm" satirizes today's middle-class values. Churchmen, businessmen, diplomats and their women are constantly trying to have dinner with each other and are constantly interrupted. Dreams, symbolism and high comedy are all on the menu.

This weekend, the Woody Allen film "Sleeper"—the one in which he gets frozen like a TV dinner and defrosted in the 21st century—will be shown six times. This Saturday's screenings will be at 2, 7, 8:45 and 10:30 and Sunday's will be at 7 and 9.

BRECHT
"Chalk Circle." The Princeton World Hunger Fund will benefit from proceeds of the opening night at Murray Theatre next Thursday. The play is Bertold Brecht's "The Caucasian Chalk Circle," and it will open Thursday, April 17 at 8 p.m. Tickets are $5.

It will play again that Friday, Saturday and Sunday at regular admission prices: $3 and $2 for students. Performances have also been scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 24, 25 and 26.

MORE FROM "THE PEACOCK TAPES"

Q. Back to the restaurant. What kinds of food are served?
A. An American cuisine: several varieties of our beef-burger (wineburger, baconburger, etc.) at lunch, plus a dozen other standards like fish and chips, and broiled fresh flounder. At dinner, the selection includes fresh bluefish, roast ribs of beef, choice steak, southern fried chicken and a current favorite, fresh flounder stuffed with crabmeat.

Q. Why is Peacock Inn food different from that served in other fine restaurants?
A. Close attention to individual orders in a low-volume, intimate operation insures consistent skill in preparation.

Q. Who cooks this fine food?
A. A very pleasant South Carolinian named Governor Robinson who has been chef since 1966. Meticulous in detail and painstaking in presentation, his cooking is commended by enthusiastic customers.

Q. Is good food all that's needed to have a good restaurant?
A. No. Just like show business, the good restaurant must have everything click to have a "hit." The cast (chef, waiter, bartender, etc.) must know their parts well; the set (the decor, the ambience) must be effective; the starring roles (the food itself) must be authoritative and timely. The audience (the customer) is the wood participant. He decides how long the play will run by his critical comments or acclaim.

Q. Do we need reservations to see the long-running "hit" at the Peacock Inn?
A. Not usually, unless you are a large group. So please come and enjoy!

Brecht has laid his play in 1945 in the southern part of the Soviet Union. He presents a clash between two neighboring collective farms over a valley which lies between them.

The legend of the servant girl Grusha and the child she has rescued proves peculiarly relevant to the debate between the two collective farms, and the farmers enact the legend and solve their problem.

Katherine Mendeloff, a Princeton University student, is directing. Geniah Abrahams is movement consultant, Katherine Stewart and Dennis Davenport have designed costumes and composed music.

JAZZ.....

From Preservation Hall. For the third year in a row, New Orleans' Preservation Hall Jazz Band will come to Alexander Hall (8 p.m. Friday, April 25), playing the original New Orleans jazz the way they did half a century ago—the average age of the musicians is well into the seventies.

Musicians coming to Princeton will be James "Sing" Miller, piano; Willie Humphrey, clarinet; Cie Frazier, drums; Percy Humphrey, trumpet; Allan Jaffee, tuba and Jim Robinson, trombone. Robinson, in his eighties, is the senior member of the band.

Tickets are at the McCarter Theatre box-office.

FREE MOVIE OFFERED

At Public Library. A lunch-hour showing of "I Heard the Owl Call My Name", starring Tom Courtenay and Dean Jagger will be featured at the Princeton Public Library next Tuesday at 1, in addition to a customary 8 o'clock showing.

The story, adapted from Margaret Craven's novel, concerns a young Anglican priest who leaves British Columbia to work in a remote Indian village in Canada.

Coffee will be served at the afternoon screening, and the audience is invited to bring a sandwich to the free, 78-minute program.

ONE-ACTER SCHEDULED

As Chancel Opera. "Calvary," a one-act Chancel Opera by Thomas Pasatieri, will be presented in the Bristol Chapel of Westminster Choir College on Tuesday, by students of the Church Music Practicum Class. This 33-minute contemporary opera has attracted special attention as a result of the new interest in chancel opera by churches of many denominations in the U.S.

The religious music drama is based upon a play by William Butler Yeats. The unusual text could be the subject for analysis for its symbolism rather than presentation of historical fact. Both Lazarus, who was raised from the dead, and Judas, who betrayed Jesus, confront the Lord as he carries his cross to Calvary.

The three soldiers—gamblers—have nothing to ask of the Lord at the end. The drama is unified by three musicians who set the stage, give comments, and close the opera.

Conductor for the performance is Robert Jones, Assistant to the President. The production director is Steve Hutchinson, assisted by Sally Tarr and Ruth DeVaux. Jesus is sung by Barry Gible, Judas by Mike Noland and Lazarus by Steve Lucasi.

Additional cast members include Lynn Halverson as the 1st Musician, Kathy Wardle as the 2nd Musician, Jolie Miller as the 3rd Musician; Mark Mason, Stephon Thompson as the Soldiers, and Louise Shallow as the Dancer. The performance is accompanied by a nine-piece instrumental ensemble.

Performance by Juilliard Quartet Reflects Highest Level of Art of Ensemble Playing

The peerless Juilliard String Quartet performed at McCarter Theatre Monday night, concluding the second series of the Princeton University Concerts. The ensemble, with Robert Mann and Earl Cartyss, violins, Samuel Rhodes, viola, and Joel Krosnick, cello, performed Beethoven's "Serioso" Quartet in F Minor, Op. 95, and Schoenberg's Quartet No. 1 in D minor, Op. 7.

Superbly balanced and coordinated, the Quartet exemplified the highest levels of the art of ensemble playing. At every moment, complete unanimity on matters of expression and interpretation was in evidence, yet this approach did not interfere with the sense of uniqueness of the individual parts. Each player knew just how his part should contribute to the whole, which thus developed into something considerably more than the sum of its parts.

The concert's only negative point, aside from occasional slips which it would be pedantic to enumerate, was that it did sound like a very small group in a very big hall. It required some initial accommodation from the audience, but this was no problem after a few minutes. The Quartet also did its "coolest" playing at the beginning, apparently needing some time to warm up. Once under way, their strengths began to unfold. The cello supplied a solid but never overbearing bass, and it was still easily able to penetrate when the material was more substantial. The second movement of the Beethoven was done with quiet intensity that was maintained both in the long-spun melody of the first violin and the chromatic fugato involving all the instruments. The intonation in the violin-viola chords sustained over the descending cello line in the middle of this movement was pure enough that the chords could be done without vibrato, increasing the intense effect.

The third appearance of the scherzo melody was played slightly faster than the other two statements, which made it more of a new development in the movement, and less of a simple, standard repetition. A few instances of rubato, carefully timed, gave the whole piece a finesse and, paradoxically, a feeling of spontaneity not often heard in quartets. The final coda, while not the clearest playing of the concert, still ended the first half with a sparkle.

Although Schoenberg's Quartet was written before the twelve-tone method of composition was fully developed, and is "officially" still a tonal work (bearing a key signature), it nevertheless is a challenging piece to play or hear. It is long, fiercely contrapuntal at times, and complexly organized around a number of themes and motives which recur in widely varied forms.

It is also the type of composition that the Juilliard people perform excellently. It calls for players at the same time independent and cohesive. Schoenberg builds heavily textured episodes by assembling different combinations of the basic motivic material, and there must be enough clarity in the playing that this is apparent. One may not hear every motive, but the piece should not sound arbitrary.

The ensemble achieved this "transparent density" by maintaining the musical coherence and integrity of the individual parts while simultaneously accommodating them to the total sound requirements; i.e., thinking and performing on two levels. Here (as in the Beethoven also) all four voices had real presence.

Some other outstanding aspects of this performance were the competent execution of the thick rhythms in much of the first half of the piece, and of the harmonies, few in number but unusually secure, and the lovely muted viola solo in the quiet section shortly after the halfway point was reached. More could be cited, but what is the need?

NEEDLEPOINT BY MEN
At the Tomato Factory. This month The Tomato Factory is sponsoring an extraordinary needlepoint exhibit. Not only are the finished pieces handsomely worked, but all the stitches have been completed by two men in their spare time.

Charles Blackburn and Paul Griffith began experimenting with needlepoint about eight years ago on a trial and error basis, and they have included some of these first efforts in the show. Mr. Griffith says, "We didn't know you needed a design or that mesh had to be counted."

However, Mr. Blackburn a costume designer (with four seasons at McCarter Theater, Portfolio Review, the revival of Celebration, The Bone Room and the still running Philemon to his credit), has an eye for color and design, and he soon learned to transfer most anything onto a canvas. We noticed several of his graphs illustrating this process with a shell, a swan or a piece of strawberry fabric.

NEEDLEPOINT EXHIBIT: This handsome Chinese elephant wall panel has been worked in white, blue and orange on a gold background by Charles Blackburn and Paul Griffith (shown here) for the cover of Maggie Lane's forthcoming book, "Chinese Rugs Designed for Needlepoint." This and other works by the two men can be seen at The Tomato Factory this month.

His designs include a Bargello scone, a footstool in a Chinese lattice design, an art nouveau face taken from one of Harvey Schmidt's doodles, and a Quail pillow worked with blue and white mercerized cotton.

The most fascinating piece of all is a sampler of small squares filled with many patterns and stitches. The work has all been done with mercerized cotton which Mr. Blackburn feels looks like silk, is easy to work with and can be washed. Ordinarily it hangs on their livingroom wall, a great convenience when they need to choose a new stitch.

Although Mr. Griffith won a fourth prize in Family Circle's 1972 needlepoint contest with his wooden chest covered in an iris design, he considers himself a background man. He is a writer (formerly with Life Magazine and the author of several short stories) and between sessions at the typewriter, he relaxes with needlepoint.

Rugs Dominate. The exhibit is dominated by several rugs which have undoubtedly taken Mr. Griffith many hours to complete. The largest is a 9 x 12 flammestitch one worked with many tones of rose, yellow and turquoise. Inspired by a trip to Williamsburg, it represents 11 months of work.

Although this rug is in three pieces, they generally work on one large canvas up to about a 4 x 6 size. Several of these have been worked from the Maggie Lane designs. There is the Island Temple Scenic rug in blue and off-white, and a gold and white lattice work rug with a center medallion of two Foo dogs and a border containing blue motifs.

The quality of their work can best be illustrated by looking at the wall hanging (see picture) they have worked for the cover of Maggie Lane's newest book, "Chinese Rugs Designed for Needlepoint" due to be released next fall.

These two men will design a canvas for you and even work the piece if you wish. A completed pillow starts at about $75 and the prices go up to about $6,000 for a rug, with a large range in between depending upon the work involved.

Their work will be exhibited at The Tomato Factory, Hamilton Avenue, Hopewell at least until the end of April, and the hours are Monday through Friday from 9 to 4:30 and Saturday from 10 to 4:30.

QUALITY COMES FIRST
At Ricchards. "Staying within our look, I buy the best quality regardless of the price," says Dick Lanahan in summing up his shoe store. "I feel only the best is doing well today. I would rather see a person just once a year, but feel he is adding shoes rather than just replacing them."

Because of this attitude certain lines are occasionally dropped and new ones added. For instance, this season Ricchard's Shoes will be carrying Bally shoes only for men because the women's have fallen off in quality.

However in its second season on the women's side is the Martini Osvaldo line which Mr. Lanahan says, "Dollar for dollar is probably the finest line of footwear in the world. I can't keep them in the store. They are that good, and there is a multitude of colors." Including styles and colors, this Italian line contains more than 50 different shoes.

A medium heel sandal with a narrow ankle strap comes in six colors; an open-toe and backless sandal has a woven straw wedge heel; in brown or white leather with a medium-high heel there is a sporty, yet dressy, slingback; and in a simulated cork that wears better than the real thing we saw several styles with moulded platform soles, $27 to $39.

French Market, Dating Back to Early '20s, Will Open Friday Morning for 1975 Season

The French Market will open in the "pocket-park" at Mercer and Nassau Streets (opposite TOWN TOPICS) at 8:30 Friday morning. Parking on the park's perimeter is free to patrons of the market until 11 when it closes until the following Friday.

Miss Margaretta Cowenhoven and Mrs. Thomas Eglin are co-chairmen for the spring season ending May 30. Daffodils from Princeton gardens, flowering branches and geraniums will be offered for sale.

More than half a century ago, the French Market sprouted from the sidewalk in front of Krespach's Upholstery Store nearby the present site. An umbrella, a chair, and buckets of flowers were the properties assembled by Mrs. Olie Spalding, wife of a professor in the Bruno Magli. Also new are the Bruno Magli shoes, at the top in quality. Each shoe is made from one whole piece of leather, no piecing, and Mr. Lanahan says, "These linings are better than most outside." Two styles of these soft handsome shoes are a low heel slingback as well as a high heeled open-toed slingback with wide crossed straps across the foot, $45 and $55.

In the spring and summer when everyone is looking for open footwear, Ricchard's always does a great job with Amalfi shoes. Low-heeled sandals come in a rainbow of colors with t-straps, double straps or many criss-crossed ones, $27 to $29. There are also sandals with wedge heels, slingbacks with higher heels, and a shoe with a basketweave pattern on the top of the foot, up to $43.

The same company produces the Miramonte line from Mexico which is slightly lower priced, but still well made. Our favorite here was an open-toed slingback with a wedge heel in a green, white or brown woven basket pattern, $28.

For some time now the word casual has been a primary importance in the shoe field, and this trend continues. Always popular are the Old Maine Trotters that are so soft and comfortable you can slip them into your back pocket. With a woven wedge heel and a thin crepe sole you can choose a loafer style with a gold buckle or an open-toe slingback, $26 and $24.

Low Priced Models. Once again Bandolino has specially made a line of cushioned cork shoes for Ricchard's, and you can choose the closed toe model in three colors or the open toe one in four, $19. Bandolino also makes a thong with a low wedge heel in five colors, $16. Mr. Lanahan says, "At these incredible prices, this is an important group for me."

For many people clogs have become a way of life, and there are styles for men, women and children, all by Olof Daughters of Sweden, $16 to $18.

With the emphasis on casual styles, this is not the only company that makes the same shoe for both men and women. There are the crepe sole soft leather shoes or oilskins by Rockport Casuals, about $30; J.L. Coombs boat shoe with oil-treated leather and the traditional white grip sole, about $20; hand-made leather sandals by Safari, $16 to $20; espadrilles; and Frye boots.

Other casual shoes on the men's side of Ricchard's include Tretorn's suede sneaker in five neutral colors, $33; nine styles by Sioux of Italy with plantation crepe or ribbed Modern Language Department of Princeton University, in planned resemblance to the flower stalls of Paris.

Her purpose, to raise funds for war-devastated France, became superfluous when this country assumed responsibility for rehabilitation of the war-torn ally. Some of her helpers, members of the The Garden Club of Princeton, assumed charge of the project to maintain funds for encouragement of civic beautification and gardening practices. Some of their plantings, such as the shrubbery around the Medical Center, have been plowed under by community expansion. Others like the trees in Palmer Square and the Handbook of Herrontown Woods endure to benefit the community, without whose support The French Market could not flourish.

rubber soles; and the coach's shoe from Barefoot Gear that is so cushioned it can be worn with or without socks, $36.

For work or other more formal times, there is a wide range of Bally shoes. In fact Ricchard's has the largest selection in the country, including Bally's own shops.

The styles range from a white resort-wear slip-on to a tassel loafer to a wing-tip tie shoe, and they are all wonderfully light-weight and flexible, $55 to $85.

Other shoes here include the E.T. Wright Arch Preserver ones, a top U.S. Line, and a crepe sole (with leather tips to hold it down) tie shoe by Alden of New England. This latter shoe was so successful that Ricchard's asked the Alden company to make a low two-eyelet chukka boot for them. This sole wears like iron and when you do need a new one, Ricchard's does the ordering for you, $59 and $68 for these two shoes.

As a final thought we were very impressed with Ricchard's handsome well-priced private label shoes that include a tassel loafer and a tie suede shoe with a heavy rubber sole, $49 and $34 respectively.

Ricchard's Shoes, at 150 Nassau Street, is open 9 to 5:30 Monday through Saturday.

now under construction. The University has just completed a $600,000 agreement with South Brunswick for sewer service, and hasn't been able to market its Phipps land until it had a sewer solution.

The Johnson building is tax-exempt, and at the hearing in Plainsboro Monday night, several in the audience expressed uneasiness that the University might choose other non-profit and therefore non-taxpaying institutions.

The University's land package includes 452 acres owned by Walker-Gordon Laboratories, with whom the University has a development agreement. Henry Jeffers III, an officer of Walker-Gordon, is on the Plainsboro Planning Board.

Development will be less than one-third of that permitted by existing zoning, the University estimates. Phase I does not require any local road improvements, and later phases will depend on the development of mass transit and additional roads.

Open Space: 48 Acres. Plans call for setting aside 480 acres of open space "to protect woodlands, stream corridors, and the Delaware and Raritan Canal," the University's prospectus says.

The development has been discussed throughout the area for a period of a year or more. It has not been a specific subject for study by the Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer Regional Study Council, said the Council's president, Henry S. Patterson this week. However, Mr. Patterson commented that the development seems to do some of the things the M.S.M. group favors, like including housing within a commercial and industrial mix.

In addition, Mr. Moran said the University has talked with the Conservation Coalition about the future of the canal. A buffer is planned, he said, between the canal and the development, and housing units will be set back. They will be low-rise, he said; more than one story, but not much more.

"The amenities are important to the success of this development," Mr. Moran told the press, "if people can shop on their lunch-hour, live close to work if they want to, and so on. A mix is less risky as an investment."

AFS PLANS PROGRAM

Remember When?

What did Nassau Street look like when you first remember? Which of the shops at that time have passed from the scene, and which continue to serve the town?

Memories and old photographs of Princeton's historic main thoroughfare will be shared at the next gathering of Townspeople in the Public Library meetingroom this Thursday, at 3:15. Princetonians of all ages are welcome and are asked to bring old photographs, post cards, clippings, advertisements, recipes (cookies, anyone?), and, best of all, memories. Rides are available by calling 921-6817 on Wednesday afternoon.

High School, and Hatem Ben Salem from Tunisia, who attends Montgomery High School; Jorge Barquero of Costa Rica and Peter Schwartz of Princeton who spent last summer in Turkey.

From Princeton Day School will be Kenya Yamamoto of Japan, Yuki Moore of Princeton who spent last summer in Ghana, and Eddas Bennett of Trenton who has returned from a year in Chile.

SHOW HOUSE PLANNED

By Interior Designers. The former Albridge C. Smith home at 62 Hodge Road will be transformed into a "Show House" for leading interior designers from New York, Princeton, Trenton and Bucks County for three weeks beginning Saturday, April 27.

The Junior League of the Central Delaware Valley, formerly the Junior League of Trenton, will be sponsors of the show in order to benefit various community projects it has initiated, including the Bucks County Run-away Shelter, the New Big Brothers Program of Mercer County, the Community Guidance Center of Mercer County, and the Valley Day School in Yardley, Pa.

The Show House will be open daily until May 18 from 10 to 3 on weekdays, from 10 to 4 on Saturdays, and from 1 to 5 on Sundays. General admission is $4 and $2 for students and senior citizens. No children under 8 will be admitted.

NEED LAWN CARE?

A program will be outlined on how to care for a lawn, especially the problem of producing a good stand of turf.

40 STUDENTS DUE HERE

English-Speaking Union Guests. Forty British exchange students will enjoy a blend of town and gown hospitality when they visit Princeton this week.

A group of University undergraduates, in cooperation with the Princeton English-Speaking Union, will host this year's contingent of E-SU exchange scholars, who are spending two to three terms at American independent schools across the country.

Many of the undergraduates who will be hosts have spent a year in the British Isles studying on the other half of the E-SU exchange, including the two chairmen of the undergraduate group, John Fox and Charles E. Bell, both juniors.

American students currently studying in Britain on E-SU scholarships include three from the Princeton area—Ellen Breckenridge of Princeton High School and Jean Metzger and James Paterson of Princeton Day School. Announcement of next year's Princeton area winners will be made next week.

The British students, who have completed their secondary schooling, and will be going on to university enrollment or careers when they return home, will be staying on the campus with their hosts. On Friday evening they will be welcomed in the Faculty Room of Nassau Hall by Dr. Frederick E. Fox '39, Recording Secretary of the University. Professor John Fleming of the English Department will address the group on Saturday morning, with a reception following.

The visitors will be treated to a cook-out Saturday evening, with entertainment by the Katzenjammers, an undergraduate singing group. A Sunday brunch will be served by a member of the Princeton English-Speaking Union Branch, after which the students will depart for their schools for the last weeks of the term.

OFFICE BUILDING?

Action Deferred. Plans for the office building proposed for North Harrison have been deferred by the Princeton Regional Planning Board until the board meets on May 6. At last Tuesday's meeting, the board decided it needed advice from its consultant on the use variance request, and additional information for the site plan review board to supplement that board's affirmative recommendation.

The applicant, MARD Associates, wants to build a one-story office building on North Harrison opposite the Shopping Center. MARD's principals are Dr. Arnold Hirsch and Robert Albahary. The land is in the Township's R-6 zone.

The board, voting 9-1, approved the preliminary plat of Benedict Yedlin's four-house Cedarbrook Homes subdivision on Herrontown Road. Martha Lamar cast the negative vote.

Mr. Yedlin must obtain a statement from the Township Board of Health that the property can accommodate either individual septic systems or holding tanks.

Sun Oil was sent on to the Borough Zoning Board with the Planning Board's blessing for a use variance. Site plan approval was also granted. New owners of the service station on Nassau at Murray want to sell bicycles as well as gasoline.

The Planning Board unanimously—ten of the 14 members being present—approved the environmental design review ordinance for Borough and Township, incorporating in it various technical recommendations made at the public hearing by the two Environmental Commissions and members of the audience.

Peter J. Trayers

PROFESSIONAL HIRED

By Assn. for Handicapped. The Princeton Chapter of the Association for Advancement of the Mentally Handicapped (AAMH) has announced that Peter J. Trayers, of Cranbury, will serve as its full-time support coordinator.

Mr. Trayers comes to the AAMH from Johnstone Training and Research Center, Bordentown, where for three and one-half years he was a vocational counselor.

As the Chapter's first executive director, Mr. Trayers becomes responsible for developing a community support program for mentally handicapped adults. Working with other service agencies, parents, professionals, and interested citizens in the greater Princeton area, he will deal directly with social life, housing, employment, and other basic needs.

Chapter officials indicate there may be several hundred people in the group's service area who can benefit from AAMH programs. They urge parents and friends of mentally-handicapped persons to call Mr. Trayers at 924-7174.

EXTRA #1—
Pleasing Service...
it's another specialty.

In this increasingly complex world it has become necessary for people to consult a specialist for help. As an example take the case of doctors. In the past a general practitioner treated everyone for all kinds of illnesses. Not so today. People now rely heavily on specialists who are trained to give expert treatment in one particular area. This is also true when looking for a mortgage. It is difficult for lending institutions that provide a variety of loans (auto, home, business, personal) to be expert in one area. However, at Princeton Savings we are experts because our only lending business is home financing. We've been expressly trained to help you finance your home within your budget. Remember, a house is probably the biggest purchase you'll ever make—be sure it is properly financed. See the specialists at Princeton Savings. We've got the money and the knowhow to best finance your new home. (Even last year, when mortgage loans were almost impossible to get, we granted almost nine million dollars in home loans.)

ART

NEW EXHIBIT OPEN

At University Art Museum.
An exhibition entitled
"Christo: Oceanfront" will be on view at the Princeton University Art Museum until June 29.

The show documents
Christo's Oceanfront Project, which was included in
"Monumenta," an exhibition of contemporary outdoor sculpture held at Newport,
Rhode Island, in the summer of 1974. Christo covered the King's Beach cove in Newport with 150,000 square feet of polypropylene fabric floating on the sea, attached to the shore by 42 anchors. After eight days the piece was dismantled and the beach was returned to its natural state.

Included in the Princeton exhibition will be drawings, collages, and photographs—supplemented by slides and videotape—all documenting the entire process of the Oceanfront Project, from the preliminary engineering studies to the completed work.

Sally Yard, a Princeton University graduate student who helped organize "Monumenta," has written a catalogue to accompany the Oceanfront exhibition, which includes a brief historical analysis of Christo's work, a discussion of the Oceanfront
Project, and an interview with Christo. An extensive photographic record by Gianfranco Gorgoni presents the progress of the project.
The catalogue is available at the Museum and by mail for $12.50 from Princeton University Press.

Christo, who has been known in the art world for his packages since the late fifties, came to world attention with his Wrapped Coast in Australia of 1969 and his
Valley Curtain in Rifle, Colorado, of 1972. His newest project is Running Fence, to be erected in northern California in the summer of 1975.

 I

Brought to you
 By John Bernard

Did you know that Jim (Catfish) Hunter is now getting more money for pitching for the Yankees than the whole ball club cost 30 years ago!...Hunter reportedly signed a 5-year contract worth about 3.7 million dollars, but in 1945, Larry MacPhail, Dan Topping and Del Webb bought the whole team--the franchise, the ball park and ALL the players for about 2.7 million dollars!

Of all the batters who have ever played big league baseball, which one struck out the most times?...What's your guess?...Answer is Mickey Mantle...He struck out 1,710 times, and no one else has struck out that much.

Here's a little-known fact about the new manager of the Cleveland Indians, Frank Robinson...Robinson went to the same high school with basketball star Bill Russell--and Robinson actually outscored Russell on the basketball team, even though Russell went on to become a basketball immortal and Robinson became a baseball great...But on their high school basketball team, Robinson scored more points!

I bet you didn't know...that because of the present economy a loss which is not completely covered would be hard to take. Better make sure your present day values are high enough.

Five Colleges Will Row in 15 Crew Races Here This Weekend; Strong Navy Lacrosse Team Faces Princeton on Saturday at 2

In contrast to the current trend which often finds less athletic activity because of stringent financial problems, Carnegie Lake this weekend will be the scene of more crew races than it has known in any April since it was carved from the meandering Millstone River nearly seven decades ago.

Between 2:15 Saturday and 11 o'clock Sunday morning, crews from five colleges will row 15 separate races. The occasion will mark the first Sunday meeting between Yale and Princeton, making this season the first that the two universities have been scheduled to meet twice on the water. They will row again at Ithaca on May 3 with Cornell for the Carnegie Cup.

The Elis' appearance here Sunday is made possible by their race Saturday afternoon against Northeastern and Rutgers. The Scarlet is the host college for that event, but borrows Carnegie from Princeton periodically when tidal conditions on the Raritan are unsatisfactory.

First event of the day Saturday will involve the third varsities of Navy, Rutgers and Princeton at the 150-lb. level. Following at 15-minute intervals, will be the freshmen, jayvees and varsity shells, with the Tigers hoping to repeat last year's victories over Navy and Rutgers.

Races in the next two regattas will be interlarded. At 3:10, Northeastern, Rutgers and Yale freshmen will race, followed ten minutes later by the Navy Plebes and Princeton freshmen. Junior varsity races will follow, with the Northeastern, Rutgers and Yale varsities leaving the stake boats at 3:50, and the Navy-Princeton duel starting at 4. The midshipmen will defend the cup they won last year on the Severn River by better than two lengths.

On Sunday, a five-race program will begin at 10:15, climaxed by the varsity race at 11. Involved are a third varsity four from each university and eights composed of second freshmen, freshmen, jayvees and varsities. All races over the two-day period will be 2,000 meters--roughly a mile and a quarter.

Tigers Edge Rutgers. Princeton opened its season last weekend with a satisfying triumph over Rutgers, taking the Logg Cup by a third of a length--about the same margin by which it prevailed last spring. The winning time over rougher conditions than Carnegie has known in years was 7:37.2, more than a minute and a half slower than a good crew requires for 2,000 meters when conditions are calm.

SPORTS In Princeton

Each crew led briefly more than once over the first 1,800 meters, with a spurt by the Orange and Black then providing the margin of victory. A year ago, the victory over Rutgers was Princeton's lone success, but a strong sophomore crop, including four oarsmen who set a course record while winning their event in the national regatta at Syracuse last spring, make the outlook for this season brighter.

LACROSSE SATURDAY
Tigers Face Navy Here.
 Soundly defeated in its last two games by Hofstra and Johns Hopkins, Princeton's lacrosse team will make its first home appearance in three weeks Saturday when Navy comes to Finney Field. The contest will start at 2.

Despite the Tigers' strong start with victories over Washington & Lee and North Carolina, it will be an upset if they trim Navy, which they have not beaten since the '60s. The game will also provide a line on Princeton's chances in the Ivy League this spring, inasmuch as Cornell whipped the midshipmen last Saturday, 16 to 7.

At Baltimore Saturday, the Tigers did an outstanding job in holding defending NCAA champion Johns Hopkins to a 10-7 half-time lead, but they could not stay with the Bluejays in the third period. Outscored, 8 to 3, during that 15-minute stretch, they were beaten, 22 to 11.

Against Hofstra last week, virtually everything went wrong in a game the Orange and Black hoped to win after its strong showing in the south. The Tigers were down 8-2 at the intermission, managed three goals to the home team's four in the third period but then were blanked in the final quarter as Hofstra added five more.

Attackman Bill Chaires raised his personal scoring total to 106 last week, enough to break the Princeton career scoring mark by two. The old record was set last spring by Jon Pettit, son of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Pettit of Ridgeview Road.

LEAGUE RACE TO START
 For Tiger Nine. Unable to back good pitching with hitting and fielding, or vice versa, Princeton's baseball team heads for New England this weekend with its heart set on winning the Eastern League championship in Eddie Donovan's final year.

Yale at New Haven is on the schedule Friday, with a twin bill against Brown at Providence the following afternoon. Neither team is figured to be difficult, although the Elis upended Columbia in both ends of an unbelievably frigid doubleheader on the Lions' Baker Field last weekend. Yale was then blanked by Penn, 5-0, at Philadelphia, Brown meanwhile dropping a pair to the Quakers and one to Columbia to rest in the League basement. The Elis suffered through a 4-and-22 season last spring, finishing last in the league; Brown was 14-16-1 and wound up eighth in the race.

The Tigers' opener at Clarke Field last week was a 5-1 loss to Lafayette, during which the usually reliable Mark Softy was the victim of some shoddy fielding and then compounded his problems by yielding 10 hits and four walks. Princeton managed but five hits and suffered through nine strikeouts, giving unwelcome evidence that a better than average fastball and good control may create season-long problems for its batters.

Friday's near-freezing temperatures postponed the game with Manhattan but on Saturday (almost as cold) sophomore lefthander Bob Tufts won his second of the Performance of Tiger Winter Sports Teams Hits All-Time High

Princeton athletic teams have completed what is without question the finest winter sports season in the history of the University. Among the honors they won are no less than four national titles, as well as two eastern, two Ivy and another Ivy championship shared.

Every sport in which the Tigers take part under sponsorship of the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics from November into April was represented in the list of achievements except hockey. The skaters were, to the sorrow of more than 2,000 loyal fans who frequently take every seat in Baker Rink despite the team's problems, the only entry in the winter sports derby to finish below .500.

Earning the brightest rays of the spotlight because of exposure to national television was the basketball team, which won the NIT while ripping off a string of 13 straight victories en route to a 22-8 record. Brightening the picture for the future was a 17-1 performance in the sport at the freshman level.

Princeton swimmers took the Eastern Seaboard Championship for the third straight year, after having won nine of 12 dual meets. In wrestling, the Tigers won the Ivy crown with a 6-0 mark and their fourth place finish in the Easterns was their best in a decade.

season, an 8-2 triumph over winless Colgate, which lost its ninth. Tufts held the losers to a lone ground single in the sixth and both runs charged against him were unearned.

Princeton needed a five-run seventh to break the game open as the side batted around. Third baseman Ed Kuchar drove in three runs and hit safely twice, while shortstop Dennis Spates and left fielder Paul Pecka also collected a pair of hits, one of Spates' a line shot triple to left center.

At South Orange Sunday, Mike French pitched well against Seton Hall but the Tigers dropped a 5-4 decision that lowered their record to 3-6. Four of the home team's five runs were unearned.

PHS NETMEN TO OPEN

Against Christian Brothers. Its scheduled opener against Trenton last week postponed, the Princeton High School tennis team, awash with talent and depth, will open its season here Monday afternoon at 3:45 against Christian Brothers Academy.

The Little Tigers will be tested early as Christian Brothers over the years has proven to be the only school able to hold its own against PHS. On Wednesday at 3:45, PHS will travel across town to oppose rival Princeton Day School. The contest will consist of a varsity match only.

TENNIS SIGN-UP SET

For W. Windsor Leagues. The West Windsor Recreation Commission's annual spring tennis season will begin on Monday, April 14. The commission is offering evening men's and women's doubles leagues, a high school mixed doubles league and the Sunday evening mixed doubles league, plus a number of new offerings. These include a women's morning doubles league and a men's and women's singles ladder.

Applications for these events, open to West Windsor residents only, may be secured at the Dutch Neck library or at the town hall on Cranbury Road. The final date for entering these events is this Friday.

the way to the national title in that sport, while the fencing team tied for the Ivy championship and last week placed third in the NCAA Tournament. In track, an 11-1 record was highlighted by victory for the two-mile relay team in both the IC4A and NCAA championships.

Princeton's women athletes won titles in basketball, swimming and squash. A 7-0 mark in Ivy play gave them supremacy among their league opponents and their 11-4 record overall was their best since basketball was organized for them here four years ago.

A 7-1 dual meet record in swimming was capped by successful defense of the team's Eastern Collegiate title. In squash, Princeton women equalled the men's showing when they won the Howe Cup, symbolic of the national championship. Wendy Zaharko won her third national title in the sport and was one of four Princetonians ranked at the top of women collegiate players in the country.

Overall, men's varsity teams played at a .697 clip—an unusually high percentage. Against Ivy teams, they won almost three times for every defeat, compiling a mark of 37-13-1. Women played at an .848 winning percentage and took all 14 contests from their Ivy college opponents.

Tiger Quintet Ranked 12th at Season's End; Hill and Steurer Re-Elected as Co-Captains

Princeton University's basketball team, which finished its season with the nation's longest unbeaten winning streak, has continued to make news long after the sneakers and round balls have been stowed away.

As a result of the Tigers' totally unexpected victory in the National Invitation Tournament, two rewards—one intangible, the other as real as money in the bank—have come their way. In the final Associated Press poll ranking the nation's top teams, Princeton finished 12th.

In the treasury of the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics, the problems that red ink has been steadily creating will be somewhat alleviated by a check for $22,000 reflecting the team's ability to win the final round of the NIT.

Penn: Over and Out. One of the more surprising aspects of the final AP poll was the departure of Pennsylvania's Ivy champions from the top 20, even though they had quit for the season well before the week between the semi-final and final balloting. Two weeks ago, the Quakers were 17th, but a further look at their inability to handle Kansas State on their own floor in the first round of NCAA action apparently dropped them into the batch of also-rans. Rutgers was there, too, while Notre Dame, another team that had beaten Princeton during the regular season and likewise made it into the NCAA Tournament, was 14th. On a basis of the poll, Princeton finished as the second best team in the East. The Orange and Black was topped only by Syracuse, an NCAA semi-finalist which one writer in the poll felt deserved his vote as the best team in the country. Only Syracuse, Princeton and Providence (ranked 20th) were from this section of the U.S. in the top 20 teams.

Co-Captains Re-elected. Mickey Steurer and Armond Hill have been named by their teammates to captain the team again next season, and thereby become the first co-captains in Tiger athletic history to serve for two years.

Steurer and Hill have been starting guards for the past two seasons, as Princeton has compiled an overall record of 38-18 in that period. Steurer averaged 11.0 points and 3.2 rebounds a game as a sophomore, and led the Tigers in assists with 64. This past season he raised his scoring average to 12.3, and his rebound mark to 4.1 and again led the team in assists with 108.

Hill averaged 12.5 points and 3.0 rebounds as a sophomore and ranked second in assists with 56, although he played in just 20 of the team's 26 games. As a junior, Hill averaged 13.9 points and 5.1 rebounds, in addition to 100 assists.

Steurer was named to the 12-man squad selected by the Eastern College Athletic Conference, while Hill gained first team All-Ivy honors.

the addition of a Senior Babe Ruth Team as a highlight of the 1975 summer season.

The PYBA now has a program of summer baseball for Princetonians in the 9 to 18 age group by filling the 16-to-18 year old gap. Chace also announced the addition of Charles Adams and Robert Hendry to the PYBA Board of Directors joining William Bruschi, Treasurer; Robert Cronin, Director of the Babe Ruth program; George Ferguson, Director of the Little League program; and Jack Petrone, Commissioner.

The Association seeks a sponsor for the Senior Babe Ruth team, which will play a full June and July schedule, competing against other Mercer County teams. Bob Bruschi, who led Tiger Garage to first place in the Babe Ruth League last summer, will coach the new team.

For the younger players, eight teams of 9 to 12 year olds will be fielded again this summer and will play a 14-game schedule starting June 10. These teams are sponsored by the Eagles, Elks, Princeton's Engine Companies No. 1 and No. 3, the Italian-American Sportsmen's Club, Plumbers & Steamfitters Local 380, Post 76 and Roma Eterna. Chace described the team sponsors as the financial backbone of the Association, without whom the program would not be possible.

The 13 to 15-year old program will again include four teams who will start their season on June 16. These are sponsored by Princeton Bank and Trust Company, the Policemen's Benevolent Association, the Thorne Pharmacy and Tiger Garage. The PBA also contributes to the general fund of the Association, in keeping with its support of programs for Princeton youth.

Tryouts for 9 to 12 year olds will be held at Grover Park playground on Saturday, May 10, and May 17. Tryouts for the 13 to 15 year olds will be held on May 29 at the Valley Road field. Details will be announced at a later date.

In addition to a sponsor for the new Babe Ruth team, the Association needs coaches for

HUN VS. EWING

Here Saturday. The Hun School baseball team will play host to Ewing, always a top contender in the Mercer County High School League, Saturday afternoon starting at 1.

On Wednesday, the 16th, Hun will be at Friends Central for a Penn-Jersey League contest. It was scheduled to play its home opener this Wednesday afternoon at 3:15 against Girard College of Philadelphia, a newcomer on the schedule.

PHS STICKMEN SPLIT

Face Peddie Monday. All even after its first two games, the Princeton High School lacrosse team will find no let up in the schedule when it travels to Hightstown Monday for a 3:30 contest against Peddie.

Last year, Peddie edged the Little Tigers, 7-6, in a hard-fought battle and coach Bill Cirullo expects another bruising match with the Blue and Gold. Chances are the team with the greater depth will win.

Off its first two games, a 6-1 triumph over Fair Lawn in the opener followed by a 11-2 loss to powerful Montclair, PHS has shown it is a well-conditioned team with several outstanding players.

"But it isn't only ability," commented Cirullo after the Fair Lawn win. "This team has the ability to defeat any team. There's more to it: emotionalism and discipline. You have to have a blend of all three."

It is doubtful whether any blending of elements would have helped the Little Tigers Saturday against Montclair, a perennial state lacrosse power. PHS was outmanned and outclassed by the home team, which has more than twice the number of players available, and whose jayvee team is as big as the entire PHS squad. "It looked as if the whole field was covered with Montclair players; it was kind of overwhelming," said a follower of the Blue and White.

PHS did not disgrace itself. With only a few minutes to go in the half, the home team led, 2-0. After a goal by Kevin Syberg and two quick Montclair scores the half ended, 4-1.

In the second half, Montclair came out roaring, double-teaming and pressuring the visitors. Unable to withstand the pressure, PHS allows Montclair to peck away and add to its score. Near the end of the contest, midy Alex Kinnan, the team's early scoring leader, unleashed a burner that just missed the goal. However, teammate Alex Wert, stationed near the goal, tipped in the missed shot to make it an 11-2 final.

A 33-degree temperature and wind gusts of 30 to 35 miles an hour on the field affected the passing of both teams and made playing conditions almost impossible. The victors had been defeated in the state championship game last year by Lawrenceville.

A Beautiful Game. The opening game last week with Fair Lawn belonged to Princeton as much as the second did to Montclair. "It was a beautiful game," said Cirullo.

Kinnan, who accounted for four of Princeton's six goals—John Leshner got the other two—finally connected after Princeton's early barrage of shots went awry. But Fair Lawn tied it up when PHS as a man short and the half ended, 1-1.

Kinnan controlled the second half faceoff and raced downfield. He was never picked up by a defenseman and scored on a sizzling grass-cutter. Some 20 seconds later, Leshner scored his first goal. "What a way to start the second half!" beamed Cirullo.

But that lead didn't satisfy the Little Tigers. "The kids were hungry; they wanted more," said Cirullo, "which was pleasing to me because too often a club relaxes when it gets ahead. The whole team worked well together."

PHS had upset Fair Lawn last year and Cirullo reported that he knew the upstate team "would come back to try to beat us. But our guys were bound and determined to win."

"There's nothing better than to start with a victory like that. As I expected, Cirullo continued, "we were in shape."

He allowed himself a small smile as he said it because conditioning is a Cirullo hallmark. PHS has only about 15 on its varsity and an equal number on its jayvee squad. "Most other teams we'll face will have twice that many," commented Cirullo, "which means we have to work that much harder on conditioning if we expect to be able to run with them."

In addition to Kinnan and Leshner, Cirullo also cited the defensive play of Craig Rendall, the play on attack of Mace and Morgan Mohrman and the goal tending of Steve Tomlinson. He added that he was also pleased with the stickwork of the entire team.

PHS TRACKMEN IDLE

Until Next Monday. The Princeton High School track team, which defeated visiting St. Anthony's Monday, 77-54, in its opening dual meet of the season, will not compete again until the 21st when it will be at Steinert. Ken Bullock won the 100-yard dash, the 220 and the high jump for the Little Tigers. Mark McLean added a double with the 330-yard hurdles and the pole vault, while Royce Flippin toured the two-mile run in 10:16.3. Other firsts came from Rick Hannye (440), Joe Boyer (880), Glenn Conti (shot), Barry Turner (long jump) and the mile relay team.

Saturday afternoon in the annual Mercer County Track and Field Relay meet, PHS finished fourth in a field of 11 with 26 points, one behind third-place Hopewell Valley the host team, even though the meet was held on the Ewing High School track.

The best coach Marc Anderson's team could do was a tie with Trenton in the high jump. Both schools had a combined height of 17-4. Jumping for PHS were Bullock, McLean and Fred Berkelhamer.

Princeton added points by finishing second in the javelin relay, girls mile relay; third in the three and three-quarter mile relay, two mile relay, 400 relay, long jump relay, girls two and one-half mile relay; fourth in the sprint medley relay and fifth in the mile relay.

Trenton won the event with 50½ points to edge rival Ewing High School (37) which has dominated the sport in the county the past few years. Princeton, however, could move up a notch in the final standings since the pole vault was postponed because of high winds. Princeton's McLean is one of the area's better vaulters.
